Safe Theft: It Was Like 'Mission Impossible'

By VKRGIL WILSON

It was like a scene from Mission Impossible.

An incredibly brazen thief, decked out in a Pan American uniform, sauntered into the airline's dispatch office at International Airport last week and, in the unsuspecting presence of 20 employees, calmly chiseled a 500-pound safe away from the wall and made off with it.

Sheriff's Deputy James Gramka got this story from the employees.

The modern-day Jimmy Valentine came into the office, which is on the second floor of the Pan American maintenance hangar, at about 3 o'clock. He wore the white coveralls, blue jacket and blue billed cap of the Pan American worker. In a pocket of the coveralls he carried a hammer, chisel and a large screwdriver.

The thief, a dark and slender six-footer, started chiseling the safe away from the wall to which it was bolted.

Ironically, the safe had been kept previously in another room, but when the room was burglarized two months ago and an unsuccessful attempt was made to break into the safe, Pan Am officials decided to move the safe into the dispatch room where employees are on duty 24 hours a day.

It took the man about an hour to chisel the safe loose from the wall that morning, during which time no words were exchanged between him and the employees. He rolled the safe, which is 4 feet by 4 feet by 3 feet, out of the room on its own wheels.

No one actually saw him leave the room but a janitor, Jose Guillermo, who was sweeping the hallway and stepped aside to let the man pushing the safe get by. The janitor watched as the man unlocked the door to the payroll office across the hall with a key and push the safe inside.

In the office he evidently was able to tip the safe over so that he was able to reach in through a slot and extract the money. The safe is a repository for proceeds from the sale of drinks and cigarettes on flights and it is the practice for pursers to drop their proceeds, together with any change left over from the amount issued them, through the slot after each flight. A company spokesman estimated that there might have been $200 or $300 in the safe this morning.

After he got the money out, Jimmy Valentine wheeled the safe back into the dispatch room, as though he had taken it out for repairs, chiseled a bit more on the wall, then walked out and disappeared.

After awhile, one of the dispatchers, John Hewitt, 47, 1098 West Hillsdale Boulevard, San Mateo, became suspicious and called a guard. But by then there was no trace of the suspect.

He was gone, mission accomplished.

Warning Issued By Sheriff

Persons using San Mateo County beaches were warned today to beware of chalk-like objects they may find.

Two such objects, found Sunday and Monday by two unidentified Daly City boys, exploded violently when they were thrown in the water, the sheriff's office reported today.

Douglas Lackey, 22, of 54 Alcatraz Street, Half Moon Bay, an employee of the State Division of Beaches and Parks, told Deputy Sheriff John Harmarstrom that the boys approached him at Thornton Beach in Daly City yesterday afternoon and handed him an object which was about the size of a tennis ball although not round.

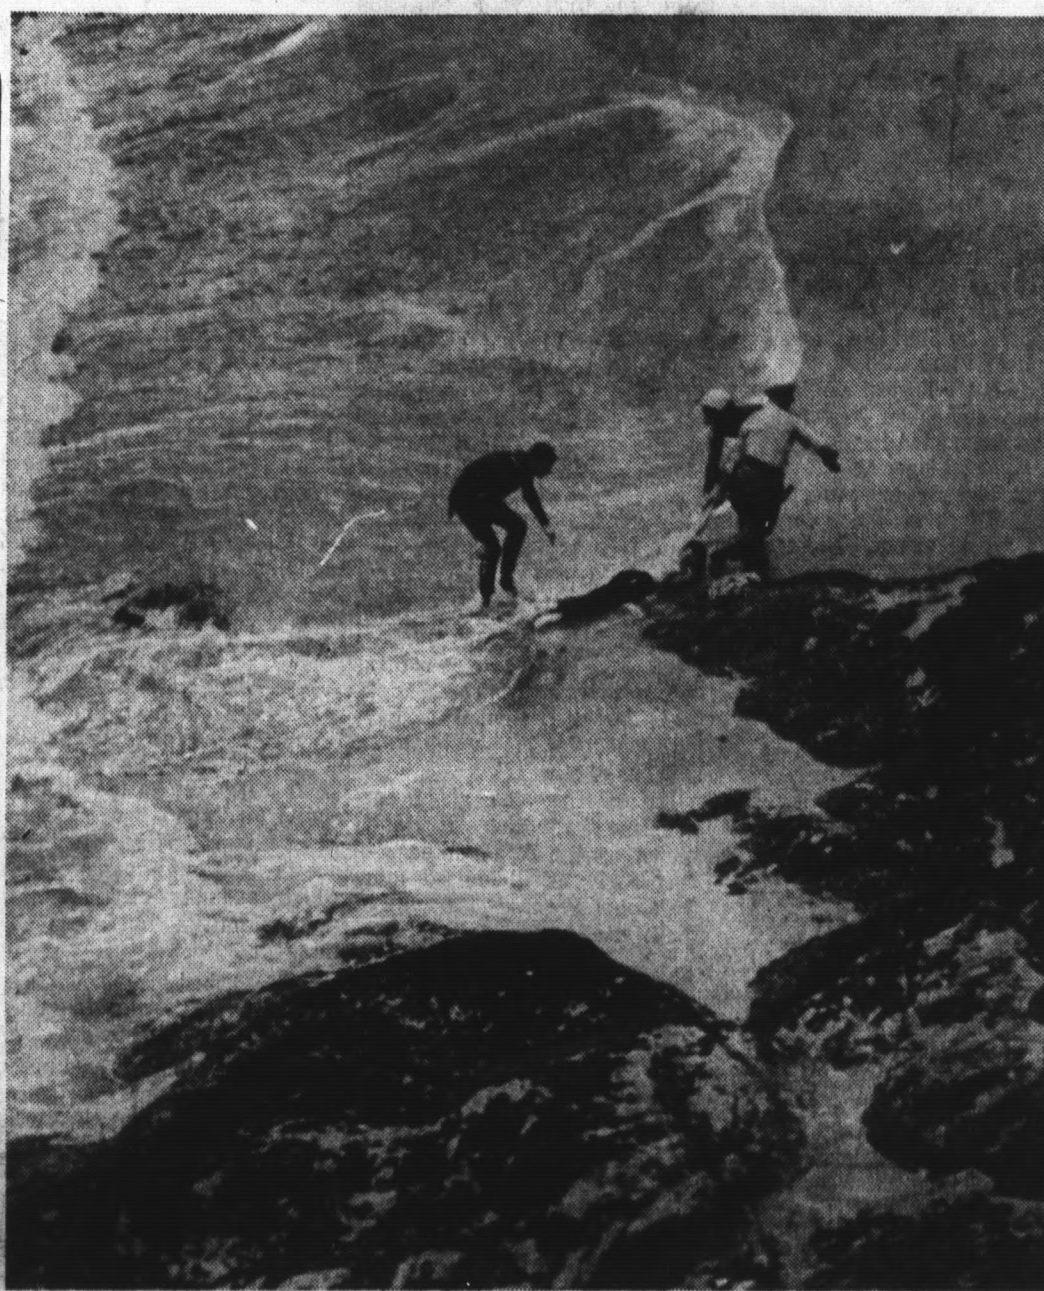

Lackey said it weighed about a half-pound and felt and looked like chalk. It was brittle and had sharp, jagged edges. It had a reddish center.

The boys said they had found a similar object on the beach on the previous day, although it was more tubular in shape. When they threw it in the water, they told Lackey, it exploded.

Lackey then tested the object the boys had handed him. He threw it in the water and after a second or two, he said, there was an explosion and water shot 20 feet into the air.

Tiny particles continued to burn and smoke in the water for some time after the explosion, Lackey told the deputy.

DC Skirts Newark Fight With ABAG

How times change!

Less than six months ago Daly City was looking for all the support it could muster in its fight with the Association of Bay Area Governments (ABAG).

What was called the "Big Brother" concept of ABAG did not appeal to Daly City and they broke away from the association amidst threats certain federal funds would be withheld unless they reconsidered and came back into the fold.

When it became increasingly apparent some $70,000 needed for a General Plan was being held back, the council voted to re-enter ABAG. The money was appropriated last week.

During a study session of the council Monday night, a request for support from the Newark (Calif.) city council, asking for support in that city's scrap with ABAG, was shunted aside with little comment.

"It's hard to go along with something like this (the letter) when you have money in your pockets," Mayor Bernard Lyett commented.

Newark had asked Daly City for "careful reading" of this policy and would welcome "your support in this matter during the days ahead."

The five-point letter, signed by Newark's mayor, George W. Kincade, pointed out the state legislature would soon hold hearings on the proposed legislation to implement the concept of regional government in the area.

Kincade urged all local Bay Area governments and citizen groups to "carefully reconsider these proposals and their future impact upon effectiveness and efficiency of local governments."

Included in the five points Kincade outlined were:

Existing local government co-operative efforts are more responsive to people who support them and tend to better preserve the concepts of home growth;

Through co-operation existing local governments can adequately handle the planning and implementation of such area-wide problems as refuse disposal. (Please See Page 2, Column 1)

Quiet Neighborhood

Albert's Trip To a 'Jungle'

By FRANK LAPIERRE

The quiet hillside neighborhood of Edgemar in Pacifica will never be the same after Albert's visit last Friday.

You see, "Albert" is a domesticated, de-nailed, de-toothed 50-pound Ocelot owned by Michael R. Magillizzi.

Both Albert and Michael live at 386 Bancroft Way — scene of an exciting 30-minute chase Friday.

It seems Albert's master went to the store and while he was away, the friendly Ocelot decided to break out of his compound and run wild in the nearby "jungle."

Albert was first sighted in an open field a block from his home by Mrs. Ortiz who resides at 394 Bancroft Way.

The native of South America would probably have avoided detection if he hadn't insisted on chasing Mrs. Ortiz' cat down the street and scaring everyone in the way half to death.

Enough was enough, and Mrs. Ortiz called police, who in turned called the Humane Society.

few minutes later and took up pursuit of the cat.

Before the "safari" had ended and Albert was safely back home, Officer Roberts soiled his clean uniform and suffered a few other indignities; several neighborhood cats are afraid to venture outside in broad daylight since the incident, and Biff Bowden and three of his friends know what Tarzan goes through each week — they were chased by Albert.

Albert was finally cornered in a back yard and lassoed by Officer Callahan using special metal pole and rope apparatus.

Obviously thinking it was all in good fun, Albert grunted and roared loudly, all the while trying to squirm free of Callahan and Roberts.

"I guess I'll have to get rid of Albert after all this commotion," Magillizzi sadly commented to Officer Callahan following the capture.

"That's up to him. He has a perfectly legal right to keep the cat," Callahan said. "Matter of fact, they (Ocelots) make fine pets — and they're absolutely harmless."

But a shaken neighborhood finds that hard to believe.

Fights Fire;

$9,000 Loss

A family of four escaped their burning, smoke-choked South San Francisco home after an electric blanket ignited early today.

Marcello Dezordo attempted to extinguish the blaze in the downstairs living quarters of his mother-in-law in his home at 567 Magnolia.

This effort failing, South San Francisco firemen were called at 5:36 a.m.

Mrs. Dezordo, meanwhile, had led the couple's two youngsters to safety.

Her mother was not at home at the time the blanket on the downstairs bed had caught fire, firemen said.

Mrs. Dezordo, sleeping upstairs, had been awakened by the acrid smell of the smoke (Please See Page 2, Column 1)

Devil's Slide Mystery

The family of a San Francisco man appeared to have been wiped out in a mysterious tragedy Monday night on Devil's Slide on the San Mateo County coastside.

Three persons slipped or fell to their deaths in the midnight hours, apparently the children and wife of a San Francisco man.

Two were found Tuesday floating in the surf hundreds of feet below where the family car was parked on the cliff.

George Corcoran of 325 Locust Street, San Francisco, this afternoon identified the bodies of his wife, Constance, 37, and daughter, Carol 9. He said their son, Craig, 10, is missing. It was assumed that the boy's body was the one seen by rescue workers that was not recovered.

A car found at the top of the cliff on Cabrillo Highway was registered to George and Constance Corcoran of 325 Locust Street, San Francisco.

Corcoran was located at work in San Francisco just before

Church Appeal Is Denied

South San Francisco councilmen upheld a planning commission decision granting a use permit for a new church on Alta Vista Drive Monday over objections of 12 residents of the neighborhoods.

The group of homeowners appealed the planners' decision on the new Church of Christ facility on grounds "there are too many churches in the neighborhood already."

There are four churches of various denominations in the immediate vicinity, including the Aldergate Methodist Church across the street from 361 Alta Vista, site of the proposed new facility.

Expansion of 'Life' Education Approved

Jefferson Elementary School District trustees voted last Tuesday to expand a family life education program conducted at the Westlake School this year after parents of the children involved voiced unanimous approval of the pilot project.

The program, which focuses upon such matters as sex education, moral values, racial and religious prejudice and "the broad context of problems which people meet in the course of the family relationship," will be expanded to include selected classes at schools throughout the district next year.

The class at Westlake School, conducted by teacher Armand Kaerin and Betty Boykin, the district health consultant, involved 30 students from the fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

The expanded program next year will involve students from the same grade levels, trustees said.

Of 26 parents replying to a questionnaire on the pilot project, 11 stated their reactions to the program were "highly favorable." Another 15 indicated "favorable" reactions, and there were no unfavorable or indifferent replies.

The questionnaire contained the questions: What is your opinion or reaction to what has been taught? What attitudes or changes in attitude did you notice in your child toward this subject? In what way did the program effect your child's communication with you and vice versa?

Of those replying to the second question, nine parents said "very positive," 13 "positive," one "indifferent," one "too early to tell" and one "no change."

On question three, 18 parents reported "more inquiries and easier conversation" with their children. Eight reported no change.

The Westlake class was taught from a guide prepared by San Mateo County school officials, and area clergymen and medical authorities were involved in preparing the course. J.E.S.D. Asst. Supt. Dr. Vincent Stratton said.

"It is important to note that this program goes far beyond a mere birds and bees type presentation," Dr. Stratton said.

He said the classes stress such matters as "learning to express oneself openly, while having respect for the thoughts and opinions of others."

The course also gives considerable attention to such things as the disadvantages of "too early or ill-advised marriages and some aspects of school dropout prevention."

Analysis Of Warren Report Starts Monday

"The Lingering Shadow," an analysis of the Warren Commission findings on President Kennedy's murder, starts Monday as a five-part series in The San Mateo Times.

The 24,000-word depth study of the assassination, the commission findings and the subsequent attack on these findings by many critics is authored by Sid Moody and Bernard Gaver.

It is the longest single story ever moved on its wires by the Associated Press.

"The Lingering Shadow," has already been acclaimed by editors across the nation as "a document of historical importance."

Contractor For Grand Nat'l Named

The Board of Directors of the Cow Palace in Daly City, which sponsors the Grand National Livestock Exposition, Horse Show and Rodeo, has named the Golden State Rodeo Company of Brawley, Calif., as the stock contractor for the 1967 Grand National Rodeo, October 27 to November 5, according to an announcement from John G. Brucato, president.

"E. C. Rutherford, extensive feed lot and cattle operator, is president of the company, which owns in excess of 200 top bucking horses," stated Brucato.

The Golden State Rodeo Company also has access to choice stock from other contractors, including top fresh rodeo steers and roping calves.

In addition to the rodeo, the Grand National will feature all star arena headliners, a full classification horse show and the livestock exposition.

Then we can have experts examine the substance and determine what it is and possibly where it came from."

the church, which will have a congregation of about 100 persons, will contribute to traffic congestion in the area, and said parking facilities indicated in the plans are inadequate.

However, Police Chief John Fabbri recommended approval of the permit and said the facility will cause "no particular traffic hazard."

The 30 parking spaces indicated in preliminary plans meet requirements of the city code for a building of the church capacity, according to Public Works Director Louis Goss.

Councilmen also overruled an appeal of a planning commission decision granting a use permit to Donald R. Schmuck for a "family recreation center" at 1103 El Camino Real.

The permit allows operators of a present "slot-car" racing center to convert their operation to a billiard parlor.

No alcoholic beverages will be sold in the establishment under the use permit, and "mechanical amusement machines" are prohibited.

The establishment is located in a "C-1" commercial district. In other business at the Monday meeting, the council heard a progress report on the proposed Junipero Serra-Clay Avenue pedestrian overpass.

Bay Area Social Planning Group Breaks New Ground

"The Bay Area Social Planning Council, in its first 16 months, has established itself as one of the largest voluntary supported, citizen directed social planning councils in the country," attorney Caspar W. Weinberger, of Hillsborough, said Monday.

Speaking to some 500 guests at the annual luncheon-meeting of the BASPC, in San Francisco's Sheraton-Palace Hotel, Weinberger said the council covers a population of some three million and deals with the health and welfare problems which annually cost the Bay Area almost a half-billion dollars.

He described the "tools" used by the BASPC as "personnel, programs and processes."

"The personnel consists mainly of citizen leaders throughout the region (five counties) who decide what are the most desirable courses of action to insure that needed services are actually delivered in the amount and where the people require them," Weinberger explained.

The BASPC is comprised of a 45 member board of directors assisted by 27 professional workers and 20 clerical personnel, employed in six offices—one in each of the counties represented and headquartered in Oakland.

Weinberger said the program has as its basic focus "the need to do something about the problems that exist" with the goal of insuring that private and public resources for dealing with these problems are properly deployed.

He said the BASPC is in the midst of six regional action studies, including the unmarried mother who wants to keep her own child; low income families ineligible for public assistance; suicide prevention programs; family service needs and resources; parolees and probationers in the community, and the impact of medicare and medic-Cal on home health services.

The bulk of the money for the BASPC projects comes from the United Bay Area Crusade (some 95 per cent), federal and local funds.

Weinberger pointed out that the BASPC philosophy of focusing on problems, dealing with them objectively and bringing about change by evolution—not revolution—is something that is testing a fundamental principle of democracy: that on the basis of sense and sensibility, society itself can achieve a better life for everyone in a highly complex urban community.

Following Weinberger's address, Stanley E. McCaffrey, president of the San Francisco Bay Area Council, presented the social planners' with a set of challenge-tinged comments.

"It is a challenge to all of us," McCaffrey said, "as we give thought to solutions to our regional problems of transportation, housing, air and water pollution, land-use planning and economic development, that we bear in mind people are what we are endeavoring to serve."

McCaffrey suggested that the BASPC might be the logical catalyst for co-ordinated planning of a larger region than its initial five county area.

"From my observation of the organization and operation of the BASPC during the past 16 months, it represents an excellent example of the successful marriage between regional resources and local responsibility," he said.

He suggested the BASPC start thinking about expanding its membership to include all nine Bay Area counties.

Fleishhacker Will Head BASPC Again

Mortimer Fleishhacker, Jr., long active in the voluntary health and welfare field, will continue to lead the Bay Area Social Planning Council during its second year.

His re-election as president of the regional health and welfare planning organization took place at its first annual meeting attended by more than 500 representatives of business, industry, government, voluntary agencies, labor and the professions from throughout the Bay Area.

At the luncheon meeting in San Francisco's Sheraton-Palace Hotel, the following officers and members of the BASPC Board of Directors were also elected:

Napoleon Britt, Community Relations Officer, Bay Area Rapid Transit District, of Richmond, Vice President (Contra Costa County); Charles K. Guttas, M.D., of San Mateo, Vice President (San Mateo County); Arthur R. Hellender, Supervisor of Member Relations, Kaiser Foundation Health Plan, of Oakland, Vice President (Alameda County); Frederic D. Kerr, partner of Cooper & Kerr, certified public accountants, of San Rafael, Vice President (Marin County); Malcolm S. M. Watts, M.D., of San Francisco, Vice President (San Francisco); Mrs. Benson B. Roe of San Francisco, Secretary, and Don Fazackerley, Senior Vice President, Commonwealth National Bank of San Francisco, treasurer.

Board members from San Mateo County: Mrs. Peter Arnstein, Atherton; Mrs. Carl D. Benninghoven, Hillsborough; J. Hart Clinton, Publisher and Editor, San Mateo Times, San Mateo; Elwood Ennis, Vice President, Griffiths-Kroeger, Inc., Menlo Park; Mrs. Donald K. Grant, San Mateo; Robert J. Koshland, Hillsborough; John G. Neukom, Management Director, San Francisco Office, McKinsey & Company, Inc.; Kenneth W. Van Gundy, District Manager, Pacific Gas & Electric Company, San Mateo; Landis Weaver, Attorney, Menlo Park.

Sponsored and produced by PG&E, the 40-foot by eight-foot trailer will be at 11 Southgate Avenue, Daly City, Monday; 234 Miller Avenue, South San Francisco, Tuesday, and 495 San Mateo Avenue, San Bruno, Wednesday.

Stewart said Corcoran told officers his wife was "disturbed." The bodies of the woman, who was in her forties, and the girl were recovered from the rolling ocean surf by skin divers of the sheriff's reserve. Both were fully clothed.

Rescuers, who caught only a glimpse of the third body, were still searching for it yesterday afternoon.

The shattered watch on the woman's wrist was stopped at 2:10.

Sheriff's Deputy Italo Ferrari said he stopped at 2:41 a.m. to check out the car that was parked there. The motor was still warm but he could see no signs of anyone. He went back after daybreak and saw the three bodies in the water.

There were sets of footprints leading from the car to the edge of the cliff and marks in the soft earth at the very edge as though someone had dug his fingers in in a futile effort to keep from slipping over.

Rescuers could only speculate as to what happened.

One theory was that one of the victims started to slip over the edge of the cliff and when she screamed the others ran to help and all three went over.

Rescue workers were lowered on ropes to get to the bodies.

Younger Back In Hospital

Congressman J. Arthur Younger has returned to Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington, D.C., suffering from pneumonia, according to George A. McQueen, field secretary in Younger's San Mateo office.

McQueen said that the attack, apparently amid one, is under control and a spokesman at the hospital indicated that Younger would be released within the next few days.

Younger was ending his most active week in Congressional work since his attack of leukemia in April.

Fair Admission Reduced

Adult admission prices for the upcoming San Mateo County Fair and Fiesta have been reduced from $1.50 to $1. The reduction was made by the Fair and Convention Association board of directors at its last meeting, to "make certain that this year's new Fair program can be enjoyed by as many people as possible," according to Duane McDowell, executive director.

He pointed out that the annual Fair and Floral Fiesta is already California's seventh largest Fair, and that future projections indicate it could possibly become the fourth largest in a matter of a few years.

"The new popular price of $1 for adults will bring a crowd to the Fairgrounds significantly larger than the 176,250 of last season," McDowell said, adding that the youth price of 50 cents and children's price of 25 cents will remain the same as last year.

He also pointed out that the Board voted this week to set the Fair season racing admissions at the same price as last year.

As President of the Board of Directors, Guido J. Rozzi of South San Francisco noted that the Board action "reversed today's trend toward rising entertainment costs" and said the Board members felt that their obligation "was to make the price and program as appealing as possible to the greatest number of County citizens."

As additional regional problems are identified, they should be assigned to already-existing regional agencies rather than to another new and specially formed layer of government;

Regional government should not be forced upon areas without securing a favorable vote by the people with the area.

Throughout the state there is a demand for general property tax reduction. It is not sensible or practical to further burden the local taxpayer to support another layer of government.

Kincade said in the Newark city council opinion, regional problems are better handled by local co-operation.

Her husband dashed down the stairs and attempted to put out the blaze with a panful of water.

When firemen arrived, flames had gutted the downstairs room, burned into a hallway and were leaping out the front windows.

Smoke damage was extensive about the house, the fire officials said, and the window of a bedroom directly above the downstairs living area, was blackened when the fire shot up the front exterior of the home.

Firemen estimated damage to the large, stucco, wood-frame structure at $9,000.

It was described as a "pretty hot fire" by firemen who said the blaze had a "real good start" by the time they reached the scene.

2 Girls Hurt In Smashup In South City

Two South San Francisco girls were treated at Peninsula Hospital last week for multiple abrasions and other injuries suffered in an auto crash at Alida and Country Club Drives, South San Francisco.

Highway patrolmen said Dorothy Patricia Tamaris, 18, of 29 Altura Way, failed to make a turn and her car jumped the curb and crashed into a utility pole.

Her passenger was Rosemary Bottini, 19, of 806 Commercial Avenue.

Julie Christine Parker, 21, of 1036 Capuchino Avenue, Burlingame, and Chester D. Martin Jr., 27, of 44 Skyline Drive, Woodside, were injured last night in La Honda in an auto accident, also involving a missed turn.

Patrolmen said Miss Parker, an inexperienced driver, misjudged her turn into the Boots and Saddle Lodge, and her car continued on through the parking area and hit a tree.

Miss Parker and Martin were released from Sequoia Hospital after treatment of cuts and bruises.

Dog License Fees Raised

Dog lovers who contend that the animal is man's best friend will be further tested beginning next January 1.

The County Board of Supervisors yesterday approved an increase of $1 in the annual dog license fee, from $3 to $4 on the recommendation of County Manager E. R. Stallings.

In his recommendation, Stallings said that, "It has become increasingly difficult for the (Peninsula Humane Society, which administers the licensing to operate in the black unless revenue capabilities are increased."

Not only is the annual license fee increased, but the late penalties are increased from $1 to $2, and impounding fees from 50 cents to $1 a day, plus redemption costs.

The increases, Stallings said, will bring San Mateo County in line with other counties throughout the Bay Area.

Mrs. Dugan has announced that application for the September school term is being accepted.

"Participation in this school," the new president said, "offers at a nominal fee pre-school opportunities for learning and growth to children between the ages of 2½ and five years."

Craig Price Is An Eagle Scout

The coveted rank of Eagle Scout was conferred upon Craig Price of Boy Scout Troop 84, sponsored by the Broadmoor Presbyterian Church and led by Scoutmaster Robert McBride.

In a Troop Court of Honor, Craig and his parents were escorted to the stage by Eagle Scouts Ted Valoria and Justin Rehfeld, and the Eagle Award was presented by Scoutmaster McBride, as requested by Craig; then the new Eagle presented his mother with a silver Eagle necklace.

Craig joins three other members of the troop who have been accorded the highest rank in scouting and have remained on the active list in the troop.

Craig resides in Broadmoor at 615 MacArthur Drive with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Price, a brother Cory and a sister Lorie.

The Prices are another scouting family. Cory is in the Cub Scouts. Mrs. Price is an assistant den mother of Pack 259 and Price is Transportation Committee member of Troop 84.

Young Craig, a freshman at Westmoor High School, participates in sports and his hobby is music. He went through Cub Scouts in Pack 263 and Boy Scouts in Troop 84. He became a Tenderfoot in May 1964; Second Class, February 1965; First Class, November 1965; Star, May 1966; Life, August 1966.

Home Tells $250 Theft

A radio, miscellaneous jewelry and a suitcase were reported stolen from the May Ellen Matron home at 11 Maple Avenue, South San Francisco Sunday. Value of the items was estimated at $250, police said.

HERMAN PAUL SCAMPINI, JR., son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Scampini, 519 Magnolia Avenue, South San Francisco, recently received his law degree from University of San Francisco. He attended night school at USF for seven years while employed by the Bureau of Internal Revenue. He is the brother of Lois Scampini, former San Mateo County deputy district attorney and nephew of A. J. Scampini, a South San Francisco attorney.

COL. Joseph U. Greely, United States Marine Corps Reserve, administers the oath of enlistment to his nephew, Joseph W. Greely, during recent ceremonies conducted at the Armed Forces Entrance and Examining Station, Oakland. Col. Greely, a plane captain with Pan American Airlines, made a special trip from Rome, Italy, to swear-in his nephew. Private Greely enlisted in the Marine Corps for three years of active duty under the "120 Day Delay" program which enables him to complete school, take a vacation and take care of personal affairs before reporting for active duty. Pvt. Greely enlisted in the Marine Corps at the Marine Corps Recruiting Substation, 6705 Mission Street, Daly City. He lives at 1457 South Mayfair, Daly City, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Greely.

SERVICE NEWS

GUERRILLA WAR

FT. POLK, La. — Army Private Gary J. Wright 18, son of Mrs. Lorraine M. Wright, 518 Moana Way, Pacifica, completed nine weeks of advanced infantry training May 19 at Ft. Polk, La. His last week of training was spent in guerrilla warfare exercises.

During his guerrilla training, he lived under simulated Vietnam conditions for five days, fighting off night attacks and conducting raids on "enemy" villages. He was taught methods of removing booby traps, setting ambushes, and avoiding enemy ambushes.

Other specialized training included small unit tactics, map reading, land mine warfare, communications, and firing the M-14 rifle, M-60 machine gun and 3.5-inch rocket launcher.

FT. GORDON DUTY

FT. GORDON, Ga. — Private Richard L. Holloway, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Holloway, 708 Larch Ave., South San Francisco, completed eight weeks of military police training at the Army Training Center, Ft. Gordon, Ga., June 2.

He was trained in civil and military law, traffic control, map reading, prisoner-of-war control and self-defense. His wife, Jaylene, lives at 208 Country Club Drive, South San Francisco, Calif.

PRESIDIO CLASS

NHA TRANG, Vietnam — Army Sergeant First Class Russell W. Griffie, whose wife, Helga, lives at 440 89th St., Daly City, was assigned to the 504th Military Police Battalion near Nha Trang, Vietnam, May 22. Sgt. Griffie, a military policeman in the battalion's Company A, entered the Army in April 1954 and was last stationed at the Presidio of San Francisco.

D.C. Bandit Robs Station

A gunman armed with an automatic held up Fred's Westlake Shell station in Daly City last week and fled with some $150.

It was the third time in less than two months that the Skyline Boulevard service station has been hit by gunmen.

Last night's suspect was described as between 40-50 years old, small and wearing a blue baseball cap, white coat and dark trousers.

THE PENNEY STORY

"One eye on quality; one on price"

By ROBERTA NASH

More often than not, in a store's newspaper advertising, the emphasis is on the price of merchandise, for this is the new that readers want to know.

But the Penney people want to be sure you understand that this emphasis on price in advertising does not represent the thinking within the Penney organization. The thing that makes Penney wheels go round is value, or what you get for that low price.

"We have to keep one eye on quality and the other on price," one of our buyers said to me. "Every sale we make today is designed to bring the customer back tomorrow."

In Our Opinion:

Loss of Oil In the War

Loss of oil from Arab nations no longer holds the threat to the West that it did a dozen years ago. The chief problem is transportation to Western Europe.

Nigeria has become an important supplier to Western Europe and Canada's production has doubled in the last decade.

Furthermore, Europe is less dependent upon the Suez Canal for oil shipments. Immense tankers make it more profitable to sail around the southern tip of Africa than through the canal in smaller ships.

A large part of the oil the United States is using in Southeast Asia comes from the Middle East. The Defense Department has emphasized, however, that sufficient alternate sources are available and would be used if necessary. As for domestic consumption, less than 5 per cent of oil used in the United States comes from the Middle East.

The United States leads the world in production, with 9 million barrels daily. Middle East production is slightly more than 8 million barrels and that of the Soviet bloc 5.5 million barrels. The West also has available production resources of Venezuela, the Netherlands Antilles, West Africa and Canada.

This is not to say the West does not need Middle East oil. But the Arab nations also need the West as a customer. Their economy is based almost entirely on petroleum. To refuse to sell their chief commodity could only mean bankruptcy.

The Marquee

Charlie's Humor

Barbara Bladen

If I'd questioned Jessica Tandy and Hume Cronyn a year ago in New York about "A Delicate Balance" which they've brought to the Veterans Auditorium on Van Ness Avenue through this week, I'd have heard a quite different critique of the play than the one they presented last week over luncheon at Orestes.

"It takes a long time to find a play's strengths," the celebrated actor began. "You can't find it in the four weeks of rehearsal. We're now in the tenth week of the tour and new values have become apparent. Yes, I'd like to direct it."

He'd been queried on his opinion of both playwright Edward Albee and director Alan Schneider and gave them both a professional colleagues' highest compliment, the kind he's not likely to throw about indiscriminately.

"Albee writes in considerable depth. 'King Lear' and 'Hamlet' take seeing many times. It's the same for 'Delicate Balance.' It's a morality play in the same way as 'Blow-Up,' '8 1/2' and 'The Homecoming.' No writer was ever so considerate and I've never seen a writer with such absolute authority. Never any show of temper or tantrums."

As for Schneider, who has been seriously criticized since becoming an authority and spokesman for "Theater of the Absurd," Cronyn summed up his talents with "you don't have the number of successes that Alan's had by accident. He's a very gifted man. John Gielgud will drive you mad with changes but he's a most marvelous director, an actor's director. But Peter Brook is a brilliant, knowledgeable puppeteer."

CRONYN'S OPINIONS ARE NOT EASILY challenged. His record speaks too strongly for experience and his credits and successes in an active and versatile career sustain his authority on the subject of theatre, acting, directing and writing. So we listened attentively and were only distracted by the equally strong-willed and matched authority of Miss Tandy, his wife onstage and off. Their opinions seldom are in agreement and what so often for us, the critics, a routine question and answer exchange, became a clash of theories parlayed with the expertise of tournament tennis champions, swift, driving and gallant.

It's obvious in brief association to see how they generate the emotional electricity they do onstage because its there in person, day-to-day conflict over approach and interpretation. They bring intelligence to their roles and hope each member of the audience does the same. Their roles can be challenged, but they are the first to do it and are ready to engage in debate knowing they've examined their characters in depth. Their charm is in their respect for their profession; the theatre as a means of communication.

Vivien Leigh and Michael Redgrave will play it in London. But Tandy and Cronyn weren't originally selected to play the New York opening. Albee first thought of Irene Worth who had done such a stellar portrayal of Miss Alice in "Tiny Alice" and he'd had Melvin Douglas in mind for the husband. The Cronyn's were most interested in the play after reading it and Miss Tandy was offered the role. Hume found out that Douglas was tied up and wrote the author asking to be given the chance to play it. A most fortunate stroke of perfect casting, I feel. Having seen it both in New York and here, I can't imagine any other players in it.

Cronyn challenged that thinking in regard to his role. "I know there are other ways of playing the husband. I see him as a man essentially hollow and that's his tragedy. He wants to fulfill something in himself he knows is lacking. But Jessie brings a great deal of human understanding to the role and frankly I can't imagine anyone else getting into the role as completely or as well."

"Everywhere we've gone the critics have complained of the acoustics. But I'm convinced it's a matter of comprehension instead of audibility. The first five minutes of the play are sheer agony. The first four pages are parenthetical, asides, circumlocution, anything but a literal style," Cronyn defended.

And then he hit upon the malady in today's audiences. "Why does the public expect a literalness from the theatre they don't expect from the other arts. The universal demand in theatre is to get total impact right now. They can't accept values or enigmas of ideas as they do in seeing a Henry Moore sculpture or a Mondrian painting."

D. C. Police Using Powerful 'Mace'

By FRANK LAPIERRE

Daly City police have added a "humane" weapon to their rather extensive arsenal — a small aerosol can no larger than an average container of shaving cream.

But the harmless-looking container packs the wallop of a club wielded by a large man.

The secret of the new weapon is "phenylchloromethylketone," a chemical that attacks nerve endings in the face, giving a sensation of being hit with a club. At the same time, irritants cause burning of the eyes and difficulty in breathing.

Unlike a police club (Billie) which often opens a wound and can cause serious injury, effects of the aerosol wear off within 30 minutes, sooner if water is applied to the area.

The "mace" (named for the spiked club used in the Middle Ages) has been used "with encouraging success" in Daly City for the past six months. Guards at San Quentin and other prisons have been armed with the weapon for some time.

Reports have been favorable and more and more California law officers are purchasing the personal size can ($12 with holster).

The gas comes in three sizes: the Mark Two fits into shirt pockets and is used by detectives; the Mark Four is the most popular aerosol carried by individual officers, and; the Mark Seven is a combination riot stick-aerosol.

During the past six months, the new weapon has been used several times, according to Capt. Dave Hansen.

"About the only person this won't work on is someone insensible to pain — such as an extremely drunk person," Hansen explained.

The Mace is "authorized, but not mandatory" for Daly City officers.

This simply means if an officer wants one of the new weapons he must purchase it with his own funds.

More than 85 per cent of the Daly City officers presently are armed with the Mace.

Manufactured by the General Ordnance Equipment Corporation of Pennsylvania, the Mace is sold only to law enforcement agencies.

With the Mace, an officer can subdue a violent suspect from 10 feet away.

Within seconds, the recipient of the burst feels pain as if actually struck in the face with a club, he has trouble breathing and his eyesight is blurred.

During riots the larger "night stick" is used.

Once the gas is expended, the weapon can be used as a regular riot stick.

"Our officers have voiced a preference for the Mace . . . they feel it is more humane . . . and it does the job better, safer and much faster than a club," Hansen said.

Hansen emphasized the Mace was used "only in lieu of the club."

The use of the weapon by Daly City police came as a result of a suggestion made by Police Sgt. Ralph Warren several months ago.

Warren saw the weapon demonstrated at a police school he was attending and thought it was a far cry from the "outdated" club of old.

He offered the suggestion and it was adopted by a department review board.

San Francisco will soon arm a limited number of officers with the Mace on a trial basis, it was learned last week.

"The biggest thing Mace has going for it is the fact that it ends all those 'police brutality' claims stemming from the use of clubs," one Daly City officer remarked.

Post-Script

Revolutionary, New Car Wash

Frank LaPierre

NEWEST CAR WASH — Standard Oil Company of California has asked the Planning Commission for permission to construct a car wash on a C-1 lot at the northwest corner of Bayshore Boulevard and McDonald Street in Daly City. Only this isn't JUST a car wash. The driver approaches a cashier's booth, dishes out 75 cents (more or less) and drives onto a belt which whisks him through the automated wash. The revolutionary car wash falls into yet another category concerning car washes. Does this mean the city attorney must come up with another new ruling??? The vibrations are still being felt from the ruling on the Market and Hillside automatic car coin-operated car wash . . .

FIRST FIREWORKS INJURY of the year was reported by Paul Padgett, 19, of 79 Abbot Street. Police said a "cherry bomb" was tossed into his face (and exploded), allegedly by a David Edleman while the pair was in the vicinity of the Hillside-Market Street car wash shortly after 11 p.m. one day last week. At least there are a couple people around these parts who know how to celebrate the FOURTH. Back when I was a kid (19 years old is a kid?) we used to have fireworks battles that were REAL battles. You never saw so much mayhem in your life. Eyes burned out and fingers charred black from short-fused "salutes." It's refreshing to know there are some fellas around that can still celebrate the holiday in its original form — with blood flowing and lotsa noise.

ODDS 'N' ENDS — Topless mama Gaye Spielgeleman will be guest speaker at the Daly City Rotary Club luncheon today at the Serra Bowl. Her topic (or topLESSic) will be "Anything they want to ask me" . . . Watch for at least one county chamber manager to make a move towards the vacated South San Francisco Chamber slot left by Frank Fairbanks' resignation . . . There's gold in them thar bowls! At least a thief must have thought so.

Thirty-five goldfish were fished from their tanks at the Western Garden Shop in Daly City the other p.m. . . . The Cow Palace now has its very own "Flea Market" every Sunday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Palace manager Ed Diran says the market features bargains galore. Costs 10 cents to enter — but it's worth every nickel.

THERE'S A MOVEMENT under way to ban trucks from the Junipera Serra Freeway. Los Altos Hills city manager Lowell W. Morse has written the Daly City council (and other councils) a letter asking for their support in keeping the new highway "scenic" and barring all trucks from using it, similar to the restricted use of the MacArthur Freeway in Oakland. But the D.C. council isn't likely to go along with the move. It just isn't good business sense to restrict commercial vehicles from entering a growing city on one of the only thoroughways linking it to other areas.

FLASHY FLASH — The much-delayed completion date for the new Woodrow Wilson School in Daly City has again been postponed. This time because of the weather. District Superintendent Frank Greenwood, in a letter to parents (and John F. Kennedy Students), has announced children might have to attend school on a double session program for some 30 days. The situation is "unfortunate, but circumstances beyond anyone's control necessitates this action," Greenwood pointed out and asked parents to "bear with us."

THE TOTAL COST for all Daly City services last year was $45.71 for each resident as compared with $62.88 for a sample group of California cities. And that isn't all taxpayers Daly City's total per capita cost is the lowest of the 13 San Mateo County cities surveyed. Further, according to city manager Edward Frank, the annual bond redemption cost of 48 cents per capita (including interest and principal payments) is the lowest in the county. NOW don't you feel better about paying that whopping tax bill???

Better Business

Small Claims Court Function

Lorene Beasley

Some citizens continue to roll along blindly singing contracts; certain consumers and businessmen continue not to live up to their obligations, and bad checks continue to bounce.

Small Claims Court is a special court created to provide justice in a minor lawsuit without costing the plaintiff more than the amount involved in the suit. It also saves the regular court's time by hearing the thousands of claims involving small claims.

EVERYONE is entitled to avail himself of the service of the small claims court. Legislation has just been signed by Governor Ronald Reagan that small claims courts will handle suits up to $300. Under the present law, the ceiling for small claims courts is $200. The change will not become effective until this fall.

Municipal judges hear the cases in small claims courts. Neither plaintiff nor defendant may have the services of a lawyer. The plaintiff can sue for personal injury, property damage, return of money loaned, bad checks and labor, but not for the return of specific property or for performance of services.

Action may be stated in small claims courts by filling out a form and paying a fee of $1. The form contains a court order signed by the court clerk, directing the defendant to appear in court on a certain day and time.

The fact stated in the form must be true under penalty of perjury. A copy of the form is served on the defendant at least five days before the trial if the defendant lives in the county, or 15 days before the trial if it is served outside the county where the court is located.

THE court clerk, upon request, will issue subpoenas to witnesses for both sides. A witness subpoenaed is entitled to $4.00 a day and five cents a mile one way to court. This fee may be demanded at time of service. One hundred and forty attorneys of San Mateo County Bar Association maintain a Lawyer's Reference Service in Redwood City.

Anyone desiring the services of a lawyer can have a half hour appointment by calling Mrs. Doris Olson, manager of the office.

The fee for this service, $7.50, is used for office maintenance only.

THE POST Editorials and Features

Germany's Dark Days Recreated

Samuel Chandler

"Horses of Anger" recreates the dark days in Germany when the twin curses of Nazism and war hung over the land.

In old Bavaria people lived idyllic lives behind their mountains. Their factories were working twenty-four hours a day. Their schools were the best in Europe; their towns were clean and beautiful as the homes of a "master race should be."

They were a "superior people," these Germans. Since Barbarossa no one had conquered them. They had given the world wonderful leaders, especially the Fuhrer whose pale gray eyes sparkled with fury and naked power.

Then came the blackness of World War II. Slowly Bavaria was drained of its happiness. The men were sent to fight in Poland and Russia. Women were impressed into the land army. Erstwhile noted citizens were tortured for the crimes of being Jewish or anti-Hitler.

BOYS like Nans Amann were pressed into defense groups although barely old enough to see over the guns they had to shoot.

"Horses of Anger" re-creates the dark days in an anti-aircraft crew. It begins with a picture of Hans on his fifteenth birthday. All alone he sits in his barracks singing his birthday song while a solitary candle burns on a small cake. Later his friends come in to drink a toast to him in watered beer. The day ends with the crew firing at American bombers.

What follows is the story of Germany in her last desperate stand. As the Nazis grip tightens, Hans and his comrades are forced to obey unreasonable orders and to be relentlessly drilled and brainwashed although they sense that the end of Nazism is in sight.

While the nights of raiding continue, Hans recalls earlier, happier days before war, before the Gestapo and the storm troopers in eely-brown uniforms.

In spite of the efforts of their leaders, Hans and his comrades begin to learn universal things about mankind — That all men are brothers, that master races do not exist, that men cannot be led to happiness by discontented persons of the stamp of Adolf Hitler.

IN "Horses of Anger" James Forman writes a powerful novel based on the remembrances of three good friends who fought in Hitler's war.

It is a novel that proves once again that some of the best contemporary writing is directed towards young people. For this reason it has been named an outstanding book by the Junior Literary Guild for teen-agers.

Series Of Thefts At S.S.F. Inn

South San Francisco's Holiday Inn was hit by a series of burglaries which netted some $3,000 in cash and miscellaneous items Saturday night.

Biggest haul was taken from the parked car of Armando Pardo Umana, a night employee of the Holiday Inn, and manager of the Ghradelli Theater in San Francisco.

Umana told police he had locked some $1,485 in cash receipts from the theater he managed in the glove compartment of his car.

When he arrived at the bank the following morning to make a deposit he noticed the money had been stolen.

Richard Heiny, of Kermit, California, reported more than $250 worth of camping gear stolen from the locked trunk of his car parked at the inn.

In both cases, police were unable to determine the method of entry into the vehicles.

More than $1,000 in cameras and related equipment was stolen from the room of Robert R. McCarver of Scottsdale, Arizona, while he was dining Saturday night.

Air Travel Gain Slacks At Area Facility

Air travelers through San Francisco International Airport during April totaled 938,780, George F. Hansen reported today to the city's Public Utilities Commission.

Hansen commented that the figure was only 6 per cent more than for April last year, with the exception of last July and August during which a 43-day strike of several major airlines sharply curtailed air traffic.

"The rate of increase," Hansen said, "was below the 17 per cent reported nationally. However, this is attributed to the diversion of air travelers who formerly used San Francisco International Airport to Oakland and San Jose airports."

"In recent months, non-stop jet service between San Jose and Los Angeles has been offered, and also additional California Corridor flights, as well as some to the east, have been scheduled out of Oakland."

Hansen's report showed the daily passenger average at SFO for the first four months this year at just over 30,000, as compared with 26,267 for the corresponding period last year.

Shipments of U.S. mail by air for April gained 21.5 per cent to 16,702,189 pounds; air express was up 14.7 per cent to 1,377,154 pounds, and air freight volume increased 11.1 per cent to 37,152,815 pounds.

The cargo increase was the lowest percentage gain in four years with the exception of the July-August strike period last year.

April aircraft movements — landings and take-offs — numbered 24,714. There were 21,026 by scheduled carrier, up 10.8 per cent from a year ago; 426 military, and 3,262 by non-scheduled carrier and itinerant or locally based private and corporate aircraft.

Hansen said the Air Transport Association has reported that nearly 110 million passengers travel on U.S. airlines during 1966, a gain of 16 per cent, and also reported a gain in air cargo of 26 per cent. Increases registered last year by SFO were 16.3 per cent for passengers and 25.1 per cent for air cargo.

The ATA also predicted that passenger volume will double and air cargo poundage will triple by 1970.

Hansen also noted that today ends 40th year since the beginning of operations at the old Mills Field, the forerunner of San Francisco International Airport.

Colma Man Is Injured

A Colma man, Alfonso Ordoñez Ubaldo, 59, 580 Clark Street, was treated at County General Hospital Saturday for shoulder and chest bruises after an accident at Old County Road and Ralston Avenue in Belmont.

Police said Ubaldo was west-bound on Ralston when hit by the car of Stephen Edwin Lumbert, 54, 1125 Laguna Avenue, Burlingame. Lumbert was booked at county jail on suspicion of drunk driving was released on bail and is to appear in Central District Municipal Court June 23.

Patrol Car In Collision

Daly City policeman Dennis J. Cosgrove, 22, suffered minor injuries Saturday when the patrol car he was driving collided with a car driven by Gerneliano Inerto, 57, of 509 Hanover Street, Daly City.

Investigators said Inerto failed to yield the right of way to Cosgrove at the intersection of Evergreen Avenue and Hanover Street, ramming the police car broadside.

2,000 Enroll In Summer S.S.F. Session

Over 2,000 South San Francisco youngsters have enrolled in this year's Secondary Summer Session. Some 1,500 students have requested courses at the South San Francisco High campus and 650 eighth and ninth graders have applied for enrichment courses at Alta Loma Junior High School.

The majority of students at the Senior High Summer School plan to take acceleration courses. These courses are identical to those required at each grade level during the regular school year. By completing them during the summer, students are able to take more electives than would otherwise be possible during the regular school year.

In addition to the acceleration program, the Senior High Summer Session offers make-up and enrichment courses.

The Junior High Summer program is composed of enrichment and skill improvement courses. The most popular course selected by this summer's applicants is Survey and Review of Modern Math. Over 130 students have asked for mathematics courses.

Other courses being offered for the first time at the junior high level include the following: Industrial Arts Survey, Conversational Spanish, Sewing for Yourself, Science Survey, and Reading Improvement.

The junior high class assignments have been posted in prominent places at each of the three junior high campuses. Summer school applicants should consult the class lists for the times, room numbers, and names of the teachers for their summer school courses.

The senior high class assignments will be posted at each of the five secondary schools during the later part of this week. Students who have already registered should report to their respective campuses at 8 a.m. on Monday, June 26, 1967. They should consult the class lists of the subjects they requested in order to obtain their room assignments.

Counseling hours have been scheduled to assist students wishing to change their programs or to register for courses in which space is still available.

The counselors will be on duty at both schools on this Friday, June 23, 1967, from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. The counselors at the high school level are Mr. Robert Cavanaugh and Mrs. Helen Brown; at the junior high school level the counselor is Mr. Wong.

Summer School office hours are 7:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Principal for the summer school on the secondary school levels is Mr. Pat Cannon. Assistant principal for the South San Francisco High School Summer Session is Mr. Robert Warfield and for the Alta Loma Junior High School Summer Session Mr. Renato Nicolai.

Daly City Heroin Arrest

Daly City police and state narcotics agents Friday arrested three men and a woman, charging them with possession of heroin.

Taken into custody at 1331 Geneva Avenue in Daly City at 7:51 p.m. were Charles Lee Grant, 42, Willie Pearl Grant, 27, and Rudolph Martin, 37.

The fourth suspect, Charles A. Jones, was arrested by Daly City police officer Dennis Cosgrove at 3:30 a.m. Saturday at the same address, where all four live.

A Daly City police spokesman said Det. Lt. Jack Walsh had received information on the case from state narcotics agents at 3 p.m. Friday and had joined them in the investigation.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant and Martin were approached as they sat in the Grant car in front of the Geneva Avenue home.

The authorities searched the suspects and the car at that time, reportedly finding a .38-caliber revolver in the car's glove compartment and two marijuana cigarettes in Mrs. Grant's purse.

Armed with a search warrant issued by Judge S. J. Delarios out of the North San Mateo County Judicial Court in South San Francisco, the police and narcotics agents searched the upper portion of the house.

According to police, narcotics paraphernalia was discovered in a bedroom, as was a quantity of narcotics pills.

The authorities then requested consent to search the lower rooms, occupied by suspect Jones.

A second search warrant was obtained from the North County court.

The search downstairs uncovered two-ounces of heroin said to be valued by a police source at between $700 and $800.

The Grants and Martin were then booked into the Daly City jail and Cosgrove assigned to wait for Jones to return.

Charles and Willie Grant were arrested in May of 1966 on narcotics charges that stemmed from the alleged discovery in the Geneva Avenue home of some $6,800 worth of heroin.

The couple had been charged with selling and transporting heroin.

Two revolvers and a narcotics kit were seized at that time, police said.

Jefferson Classrooms Authorized

Jefferson High District administrators have been given authorization to call for bids for six portable classrooms to be used by the Jefferson High School in Daly City.

Principal Ernest Ribera said he hoped the temporary units would ease the space shortage at the Mission Street complex until the new Serramonte School was constructed.

Serramonte is expected to reduce the student load from the present 1,800 enrollment to 1,500. In the meantime, Ribera said, his staff is working on a study that will show them how to most effectively utilize the existing plant.

The portable classrooms will be used to house mathematics department.

They are to be erected side-by-side above the shop areas, near Mission Street, Ribera explained.

2 Cars Crash Off Skyline In Succession

Two cars, one right after the other, went off of Skyline Boulevard at the Pacific turn-off Sunday and crashed.

The first to leave the road rolled over a metal guard railing and came to rest 30 feet down in a gully.

The second came to a stop perched atop the railing with its driver, Robert J. Buckley, 46-year-old teacher at Lowell High School in San Francisco, standing beside the car.

Highway Patrolman Gerard Follettie and James Paoli said they asked Buckley how his car got on top of the railing.

"I drove it up there," he explained.

The officers said the driver of the first car, which was registered to Henrietta Galoran in San Francisco, was not at the scene and an attempt was being made to contact her.

Follettie and Paoli estimated that the first car took the

Firemen Rescue Unconscious Man

San Bruno firemen saved Elbert Edward Harrell, 52, from almost certain death Saturday when they whisked him unconscious from his smoke-filled apartment.

A fire department spokesman said the couch on which Harrell lay unconscious of smoke inhalation, was blazing when they arrived, shortly after 9 a.m. at 580 El Camino Real.

The firemen carried Harrell out to fresh air and administered 50 pounds of oxygen at the scene.

"Another minute in there and he would have been gone," the fire official noted.

Brunan Is Injured In Crash

A San Bruno man was injured Wednesday night in a two-car accident at the intersection of Fifth Avenue and San Bruno Avenue, police reported.

James R. Dewey, 644 Fifth Avenue, was treated for head injuries at Kaiser Hospital in South San Francisco and later transferred to a San Francisco hospital after the accident occurred at 10:25 p.m.

Police said Dewey collided with a vehicle driven by Jeanne Orsi of San Mateo as he attempted to turn left off San Bruno Avenue onto Fifth.

Fires at HMB Probed

Half Moon Bay firemen are on the lookout for a possible firebug they believe may be responsible for the burning down of four old abandoned houses near Half Moon Bay in the past week.

The latest two went up in flames Saturday night on the old Skelley Ranch east of Cabrillo Highway and opposite Half Moon Bay Airport, and only 50 feet from where another one was destroyed by fire Friday night, firemen report.

Both were destroyed completely, they added. Whoever it was also had torn the planking out of an old wooden bridge crossing Willow Creek to the property, making it impossible to get fire vehicles to the fire, Assistant Chief Larry Centoni stated.

"Someone definitely is touching them off," he said.

There's a good possibility these fires have some connection with another early last Monday morning, when an old

Coil Turns Down Offer by Giants

Le Pacini

For some reason it hasn't made any of the local papers (Aside from now, of course, The Post, but former Terra Nova and San Francisco State first baseman Marty Coil has been drafted by the Giants.

However, Coil, who led the Gators in total hits and batting (.340) this past season, hasn't signed because of what he considers a paltry offer. So he's playing a semi-pro ball in Washington for a sporting goods operator named Joe Martin, and his Bellingham Bells. And hitting 400-foot homers.

You may wonder why the Giants, a power-loving club, would offer only a paltry sum to such a strong right-handed hitter, who also happens to be a fine glove man. The reason may lie in Coil's very love for the game.

As his mother says, "Marty would rather play baseball than eat."

Coil is, in baseball parlance, a "holddog," an eager-beaver. The Giants have been following him around sandlots for a few years now and they know this. They could be figuring that they can hold out longer than Marty. That eventually the itch to play pro ball will become too great for Marty to withstand and that he'll sign for virtually anything. Baseball teams are also businesses, and they won't shell out money if they don't think it's really necessary.

THE GIANTS may also be eyeing Coil for reasons other than his bat, his glove and his eagerness. If Marty has one weak point as a baseball player, it's his speed. He's not really fast, but then he's not fast, either. One of his finest assets is a powerful arm. While it's true that first basemen aren't normally required to have more than adequate speed, it could be that the Giants are thinking of Coil in terms of pitching.

For years now, even when he was at Terra Nova he's been called in occasionally to quell a fire with his blazing fastball. And he's done it well.

There's only one catch to that proposition. Coil likes to play every day and he probably couldn't stomach an every-fourth day schedule.

He reminds us of Jim Gentile, who was also a 6-3, 190 pound high school slugger who could throw hard and was used in sports to quell fires with his blazer. He quelled so many fires he was signed by the Dodgers as a pitcher. Jim tried it but he loved to hit and just wasn't getting enough of that action. He brooded and almost dropped out of the game. The organization finally decided to let him go back to first base, and you know the rest.

JIM couldn't buck Gil Hodges, wound up with Baltimore in the American League, and for a period of time became one of that circuit's top sluggers. He's back in the minors now only because of temperament, not lack of talent.

That's where Coil and Gentile differ. Marty is good natured, loose, the clubhouse comedian. If he can learn to really hit those breaking pitches (he murders fast balls), he has enough to make it someday and get back all that bonus money he may miss now in salary hold-outs.

That's the report on Marty Coil for now. When we can run down Giant scout and Daly City resident Eddie Montague we may have more on the subject.

AS A CHILD abseball player and fan there were two subjects which were always good for a round of roudy laughs — mention of Ted Williams' "glove," or fielding ability (we never doubted his bat, but it was sacrilegious to think of him as an all-around player in a class with Joe DiMaggio), and a kid with a baseball glove from Sears and Roebuck.

The latter was considered as useful as a hunting license for Albert Schweitzer. It was like buying a crescent wrench at I. Magnin's. One used Wilsons or Rawlings', or even Nakomas, but never Sears and Roebucks.

But times, apparently, have changed. The sporting life has passed us by. In a recent Sporting News article, White Sox third baseman Don Buford credited his improvement in defensive play to a TED WILLIAMS model infielder's glove made by SEARS AND ROEBUCK.

That seems to us as unlikely a combination as Rocky Graziano and Grace Kelly.

OTHER BASEBALL NOTES:

What may stand as the classic quote of this baseball season was uttered by Minnesota President Calvin Griffith upon his firing last week of manager Sam Mele: "I won't criticize Mele."

With a friend like that, who... As far as we're concerned, Comeback of the Year honors already belong to Dodger Lou Johnson. In early season he broke a bone bad enough to cause doctors to predict that he would be out for a minimum of 10 weeks, possibly for the entire season.

Just six weeks later (two weeks ago) he hit a pinch-hit homer. Less than a week later he started in left field.

Last week we mentioned that as soon as Eddie Mathews hit his 500th homer this season, it would mark the first time in baseball history that three active players (the other two being Mickey Mantle and Willie Mays) have 500 or more homers. If Mantle and Mathews don't retire, they and Mays should be joined early next year by Henry Aaron, who at this writing has 459.

TWO of the N.L.'s top RBI men, St. Louis' Lou Brock and Chicago's Adolfo Phillips, bat in the traditional poor spots for RBI opportunity — first and eighth, respectively.

The Giants don't steal a lot of bases, true, but they do have speed. Fuentes, Hart, Mays, Alou, Brown, Cline and a few pitchers CAN run.

Three of baseball's best pitchers — Juan Marichal, Gaylord Perry and Jim Bunning — break all the rules of good mound form by "falling off" the mound when they follow through, rather than following the text book form of finishing up squared around facing the batter in order to be in balance to field the position.

Which once again, proves that if you have the talent you can break any number of rules.

It isn't just a coincidence that very often teams with weak pitching have good hitting, and vice-versa. If a team has bad pitching it means that many large leads will be built early. Opposing pitchers will then naturally let up, either by design or sub-consciously. They'll experiment, quit playing with corners, "let them hit it." Consequently, batters get a lot of insignificant hits.

CONVERSELY, a team that gets good pitching is also going to get careful hurling against it, because mistakes will not then be easily afforded. The hitters will have greater pressure on them.

TAG LINES: (From comedian Marty Brill) Muhammad Ali has changed his name back to Cassius Clay. Nasser's classified him I-A.

Rams Join New League

The San Bruno Rams, a Pop Warner team, has joined the Sequoia Lions Football League, head coach Ray Monterosa announced this week.

The Bruno unit will become the eighth franchise in the league, which has incorporated a new "fifth-quarter" phase of youth football with only boys who weigh in the area of 70 and 90 pounds playing.

Monterosa (583-3198) has details on August 5 signups and tryouts for the Rams. Eligible boys are those between the ages of 11 and 13 as of August 1 and do not weigh over 125 pounds.

Westlake Bowl

By JAMES GREALISH

Joan Travers was boss lady for the Starliners League with a 660 series for four games. Joan's high game was 181. On the opposing lanes in the Golden Gate League Al Boyajin bowled 211 for a 582 series. Next door in the 805 Scratch League Bob Grayson also had a 211 game and his series was 576.

Gene Tarczy returned to the limelight in the Westlake Knolls League. Gene started with a 180 game—stayed steady with a 183 and then boomed out with a 246 game for his total of 609.

Frank Hubert wants all bowlers to be on the lookout for his 370 Swiss Doubles July 14. Don't miss out on this one as there is a $250 guarantee.

The San Francisco Naval Shipyard Mixed Fours had a great number of high games and series this past week. Leading for the men was Chuck Liebrecht with 213-187-213 for a 613 series. Pacesetter for the ladies was Je Nery with 192 for 514. Across in the 99's league Dennis Arietta wouldn't be denied as he shot 162-211 and 231 for his 604 total. Gloria Casinerio showed the ladies the way with 164 and 433.

MORE MIXED league action in the Ball and Chain as Bertha Garcia led all the way with 189 and 506. Dependable Doug Hodgins led the men with 190 and 542. Over in the West Portal Merchants League — a new leader this week as Dave Plowman rolled a 199 game and a 558 series. Bobbie Gonzales showed the ladies how with a 176 game and a 492 series.

A most unusual shot in the Tuesday 510 Trio as Frank Archini left the 1-3-6-9 spare. On the next ball Frank hit all four pins with the ball — leaving the 1-6 and taking out the 3-9. Bowling in the Northgate Mixed Fives, Joe Mueller rolled 222-221 and 175 for a 618 series. Dave Campbell also had 600 on games of 197-193 and 210 while Billie Burke paced the ladies with a 216 game and 538.

Frank Archini showed up again in the Twilight Mixed 5's with a 212-207 and 187 for a 608. High for the ladies was Helen Lugo with 158 and 464.

THE 560 Pro Trio bowling a four game set produced the highest scores for the season as eight of the sixteen bowlers were well over the 800 mark. Steve (Leader) Hargrove bowled 255-232-244-228 for 959 and Joe Maurino 230-203-229-241 for 903.

Other leading scores were Frank Cotton 257-883; Bob Grout, 246-864; Bill Greer 224-823; Les Barrett 223-821; Larry Oppenheim 222-817 and Ray Moore 204-805.

Bev Evans bowled her high of 211 which was good for a 586 series in the Thursday Mixed 4's. Bev was high for the league as top bowler in the mens department was Frank Sherry with 196 and 566. Across the lanes in the Southwest Handicap Lou Calli led from start to finish with 196 and 560.

Muriel Swango had a terrific week in the morning just gone by. On Tuesday Muriel led the Wiglet League with a 201 game and a 565 series. On Wednesday she paced the Doubles with a 182 for a 496 and on Thursday was high in the Summer Fun League with a 169 game and a 473.

IN THE B'nai B'rith Mixed League Al Meister led the men-folks with a 199 for 553 while for the ladies Arlene Steinberg was high with 182 and 491. Dino Santrigos is still leading the pack in the Westlake Merchants League as he bowled 194 for a 577 series. Leading lady this past week in the same league was Jane Trevor with a 154 game good for a 421 series.

For Long Bloom Season, Mix Iris

By IVA NEWMAN

Anyone that has grown five or six types of iris can well understand the iris fancier's love of these fragile but beautiful flowers. They can have from six to seven or more months of bloom in addition to a wide variety of flower shapes and colors.

Our iris season starts with a small clump of Iris stylosa, often called "winter iris" because the delicate lavender-blue blooms frequently open in late November and blooms may be had from November through February. Our first clump of these iris was a gift. It was a large well-rooted clump and we fully expected a few flowers the first year after planting. It took that clump almost three years to flower but it never missed a season after that. Iris stylosa doesn't like to be disturbed. They do need to be divided after a time but we learned to take off a portion of the big clump, instead of lifting the whole clump. This lets the old clump provide flowers while the new divisions are getting established. We also learned to cut back the tall leaves in the fall so the blooms, on their nine inch stems could be seen. We have always grown this iris in the shade, watering it until it was well established then letting it forage for itself. However, we have seen it grown equally well in full sun where it was watered at regular intervals throughout the summer.

The Dutch iris come into bloom for us next. These are grown from bulbs set out in the fall. We have tried to naturalize plantings of this iris to get out of the annual planting but go-phers have wrecked our plans each year by eating the bulbs. We have just heard that mixing rock wool with the soil will discourage these pests so come fall we will try using it with Dutch iris. We would like to suggest that you make several plantings of this iris, spacing them about two weeks apart to prolong the blooming period. We have had these bulbs bloom in March, in a good spring, and we have had blooms in May.

The bearded iris are our next to flower. We deliberately chose varieties that bloomed at different times so we could spread the flowering season out. These are the most popular of all irises but not exactly the most showy. We grow a number of varieties of bearded iris but we don't grow them in rows like so many iris fanciers do. Rows may be easier to cultivate but they don't add much to a private garden. We grow our bearded iris in clumps, one variety per clump. Start by buying three rhizomes of each variety you plan to grow. Dig your soil and enrich it then, set your three rhizomes with their growing tips pointed inward (rhizomes grow from the end with leaves).

Planted as above the clump will need to be dug and separated by the end of the third year. At this replanting, space the rhizomes a little farther apart and face the growing tips away from the center so as to make a circle. This will keep your varieties separated and give you a good-looking garden planting. Then, each year when the blooms have finished and unflowered leaf fans have sprung up, you can remove the old flower stalk and the rhizome that produced it. By pulling out the rhizomes that have flowered you will lengthen the periods between replantings.

Each rhizome produces a bloomstalk only once. The flowers you get the following spring are reduced from new rhizomes which the old rhizome has put out. The old rhizome serves as a food reservoir. Usually an old rhizome puts out two new rhizomes about the same time it produces the bloomstalk. Always be very careful when removing an old rhizome not to damage or disturb either of the new rhizomes.

Remontant Iris or iris that bloom in both spring and fall grow a bit differently than the regular bearded iris. Contrary to popular belief, the old rhizome does not produce two sets of bloomstalks. Like the once-a-year varieties a rhizome produces one set of flowers, no more. However, it does have the ability to put out new rhizomes with flower buds that produce spring blooms.

Remontant irises need to be watered throughout the summer season if they are to bloom in fall. If you let them dry off as you do the spring or once blooming varieties they will act like these iris and bloom but once. By the same token these remontant irises will need more fertilizer than those that bloom but once.

We are often asked if iris foliage should be cut back each spring after flowering. Irises are better off with all the good foliage left on. Leaves are cut back to fans when transplanting to compensate for the loss of roots. They are also cut back when the foliage is diseased to keep the disease from spreading through the garden. Dead or dying leaves should be pulled off to keep the garden neat and some iris fans trim any brown leaf ends they find but leave all the good leaves to help nourish the rhizomes for the next flowering season.

Two types of iris are blooming now in our garden. The spu-

'Irish Mist' Post Plant Of the Week

"Irish Mist," a new luminescent, orange-scarlet floribunda rose which made its initial appearance in Northern California last Wednesday, is The Post Plant of the Week.

This new rose is the result of crossing "Orangeade," an orange colored floribunda which the Irish claim can be seen for twenty-five miles on a dark night, and "Mischief," a coral-salmon hybrid tea noted for the beautiful form of its half to full open flower.

Originated by Samuel McGredy IV, internationally distinguished rose hybridizer, of Portadown, Ireland, the official description reads "All too few of us have had the good fortune to watch the sun rise over Connaught. If you are one of the lucky ones, you will need no description of Sam McGredy's exquisite new hybrid floribunda. If you have not had occasion to enjoy the glowing, shimmering morning mists of Ireland, the rose "Irish Mist" may serve as an admirable substitute."

Grass Burns On Mountain

A fire, apparently started by children playing with matches, burned two acres of dried grass on the eastern end of San Bruno Mountain Sunday afternoon. It was the third grass fire of the season on the mountain.

Conner Top Home-Ec Girl

Fred Adams, Capuchino High School principal, announced this week that Sue Conner has been named top-ranking home economics student at Capuchino High School. Sue is the daughter of Mrs. S. Conner of 627 Santa Florida, Millbrae.

As an outstanding home economics senior, Miss Conner received the Sterling Silver Home-making Award for 1967, a six-piece place setting of sterling flatware at the awards assembly held on June 5.

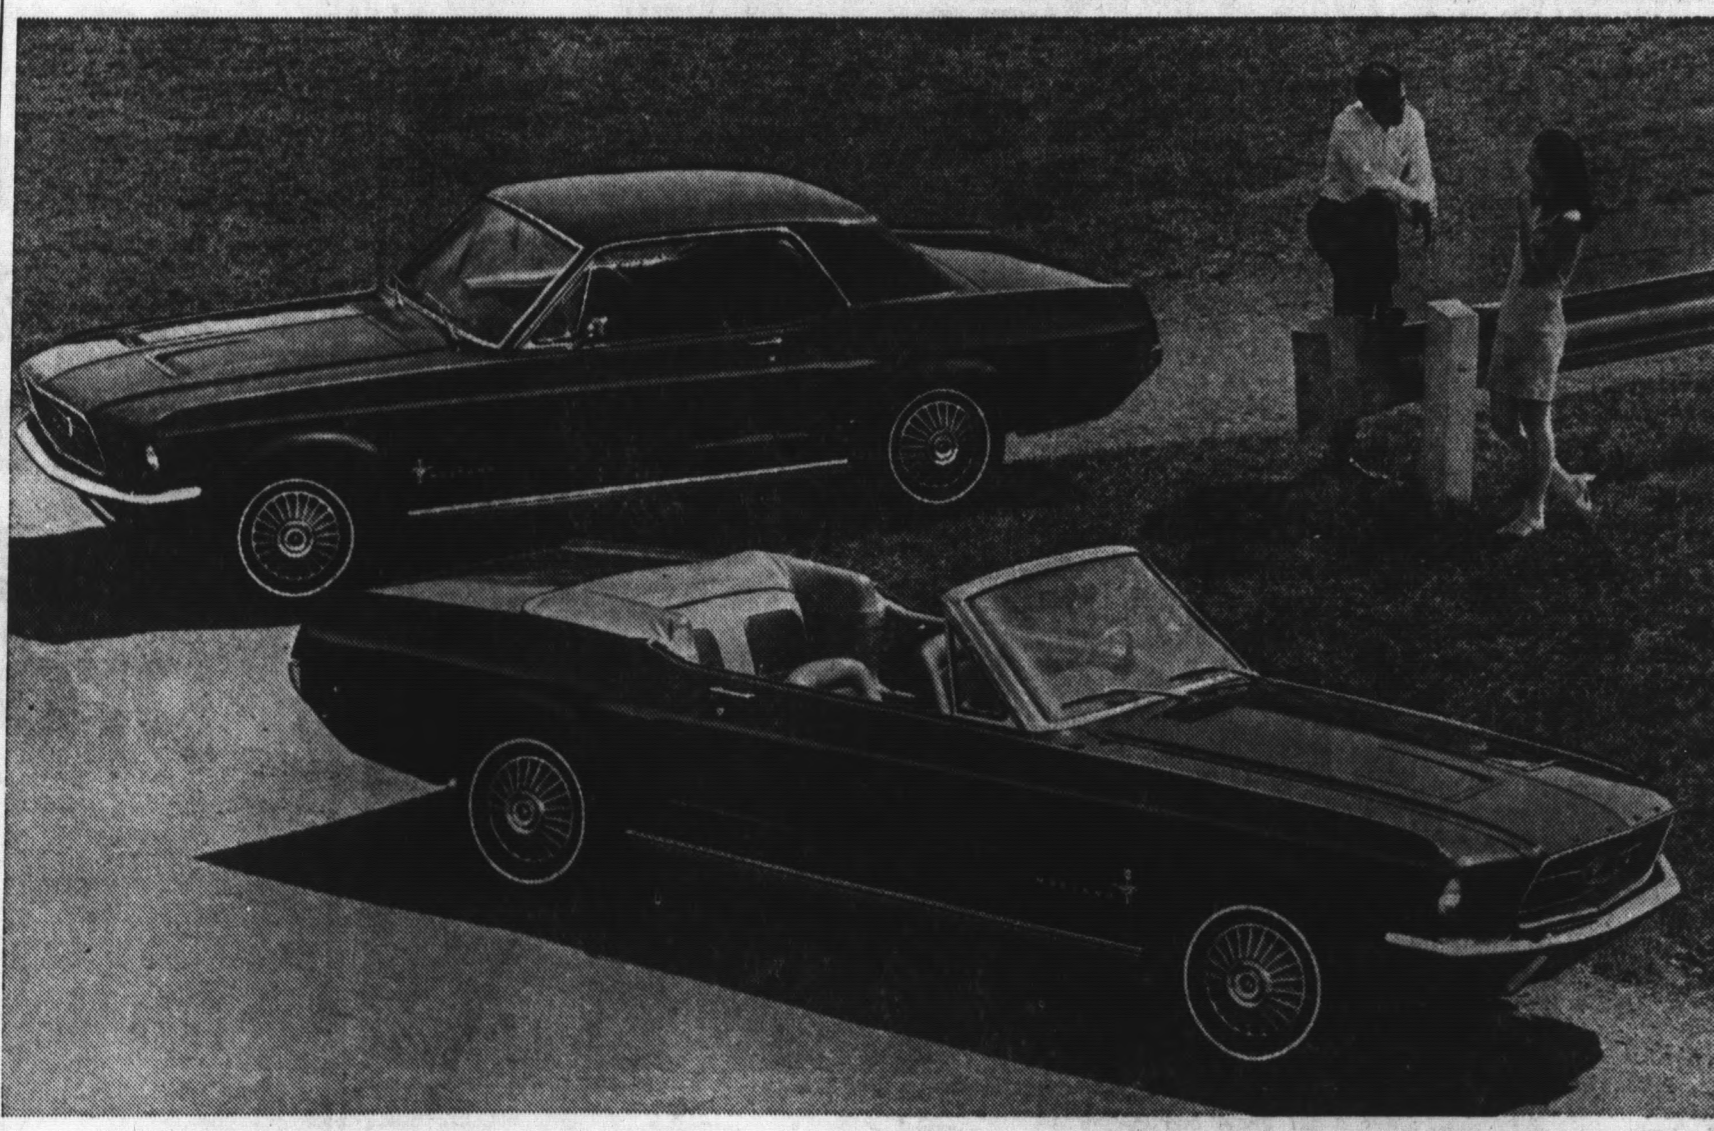

The pattern for the award sterling was selected by the home economics students as part of a special project in consumer education, and the silver has been on display in the Home Economics Department throughout the year.

The award is made available by the Sterling Silversmiths Guild of America in recognition of the fine work being done today in high school home economics education, and to stimulate student interest in the home making arts.

Sue's instructor is Mrs. Dagny Golladay, home economics department head.

YW Elects, Sets Tour

Mrs. Clarence Adams has been named president of the Y-Wives Club of the San Mateo County YWCA.

Mrs. John Dubus is the new vice president. Other officers include Mrs. Robert Bancho, secretary; Mrs. Richard Futrell, treasurer.

In addition, Mrs. Marshall Bloss is the hostess and Mrs. Robert Rowell membership chairman.

The new officers have planned seven weeks of summer activities for the group.

There will be three bowling mornings, picnics, a tour and a zoo outing included in the plans.

Most activities will include the members' children.

Details about the Y-Wives summer program are available from Mrs. Dubus, 16 Elmwood Drive, Daly City, or from the YWCA office, 375 South Mayfair, Daly City.

The YWCA is sponsoring a guided tour to the Geysers, on June 28, to benefit the YWCA Parent Participation Nursery school. The tour tickets at $2 include bus transportation, luncheon "and scenic beauty."

The Healdsburg area tour will start at 8:30 a.m. from the YWCA offices at 375 Mayfair, Daly City. Return by 4:30 p.m. is expected.

Proceeds are to benefit equipment and furnishings for the YW's parent-participation nursery school.

Reservations may be made at the YW office.

Registration is now under way for summer fun classes starting the week of June 26, open to pre-school, junior, teen and adult age groups. Classes offered are tennis, golf, guitar, ballet, Hawaii and Tahitian dance, bowling and billiards and rapid reading.

The tiny tot program includes arts and crafts, creative group activities and the Y nursery school classes.

Daly City Teens

The Telstars and Roof Raisers Junior Teen Clubs sponsored by the Daly City Department of Recreation, held their final dance of the school year at Westmoor Park. Providing the entertainment was the "Harvard Lawn."

The eighth graders won top honors over the seventh with Steve Kerkes and Debbie Greer taking first place in the dance contest. The winner of the door prize was Gale Clarke. The graduation decorations were provided by Vikki Tuttle.

The Telstars and Roof Raisers' next activity will be an outing to Santa Cruz on July 1. Cost for members is $1.50 and guests $2. Permission slips must be turned in by June 28 to the recreation leader at Westmoor Park or F. D. Roosevelt School.

The Imperials and Casuals Teen Clubs will have a number of exciting activities planned for the summer. Both clubs will combine for a Sports Night on Tuesday, July 11 and a joint excursion on July 29.

The Casuals will have their first dance of the summer Tuesday evening, June 27 at Colma School.

The Imperials will meet the same evening at Lincoln Park. Summer Junior Teen Dances will run from 7 to 9 p.m. Calendars are being mailed to all members.

The Know Names Junior Teen Club ended the school session of activities with a Battle of the Bands contest and dance. Danny Walker's "The Silencers" and Jeff Levin's "The Just Sound" battled for over an hour and finished in a draw.

"The Mystic Eyes" played for an hour while the "battle" of the bands' cooled down. In the finals, "The Just Sound" edged out "The Silencers," with their original composition featuring Jeff on the harmonica.

During the evening there was a membership card draw, where two card numbers are drawn and the cardholders receive record albums. The winners were both students from Ben Franklin: Karen Matvey and Christie Peterson.

The Daly City Department of Recreation will sponsor a summer program of activities for the Know Names. Flyers will be mailed announcing the particulars of the events.

"An Evening Summer Dance" on June 20th from 7 to 9 p.m. will be the first summer function and the winner from the Battle of the Bands, "The Just Sound" will provide the musical entertainment. Special record awards will be made, so be sure to bring your membership card.

DALY CITY Recreation Department recreation Leader Patsy Walker staged a Mod Party for approximately one hundred and fifty youngsters at the Vista Grande Playground. The children spent a week diligently preparing for this special event which proved to be most entertaining.

"The Vertical Hold Band," with Mike Ruggiero on rhythm guitar, Pete Bodgon on lead guitar, John Ferrarri on bass and "Bangin'" Bob Ferrarri on drums and "Swingin'" Jeff Carr vocalizing — all performed the latest Mod Music for a fascinated audience of little, make-believe, Vista Grande Mod-stars.

"The Vertical Hold Band" is composed of a group of local teen-nagers who donated their time to help entertain the children at the playground. Parents, also brought cakes, doughnuts and cookies for refreshments.

Vows Exchanged

Betty Jane Benton and Donald Campbell exchanged wedding vows recently at the Bethel Church of Pacifica. The Rev. Lee Warford officiated.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everest A. Benton was given in marriage by her father. She wore a street-length gown of champagne peau de sole with a Belgian lace veil.

Her attendants, Christina Marie Lopes, maid of honor, and Carol Lopes, bridesmaid, wore Kelly green A-line dresses with long bell sleeves. Mary Lou Benton was the flowergirl, and Robert Campbell carried the rings.

The bride is a graduate of Oceana High School and member of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority. Her husband attended school in Salt Lake City and served with the Navy in the Philippines.

The couple will live in Salt Lake City.

2nd Annual Workshop

A Second Annual Summer Art Workshop sponsored by Pacifica's CCCC, will begin Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Pacifica Library's Community Room, Palmetto and Hilton in Sharp Park.

The workshop will be taught again this year by Luis Ruiz.

The eight-week course will include oil and water color painting. A fee of $18 will be charged.

For further information, call Katherine Henwood, 359-1719 or Lucy Muir, 359-1089 after 11 a.m.

Testimonial For SSF Educator

A testimonial dinner will be held at the Brentwood Lodge in South San Francisco June 20 for Hillside School Principal Mrs. Myrtle Cotter.

Mrs. Cotter will retire this month after 44 years as a teacher and principal in South San Francisco.

A native of San Francisco, she joined the district's teaching staff in 1923.

She has served as principal at three different elementary schools, and was the first principal at Hillside, which opened in 1958.

Master of ceremonies at the testimonial dinner will be South San Francisco Police Chief John Fabbri, one of Mrs. Cotter's former pupils.

The dinner begins at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are available on a "first come, first serve" basis from Mrs. Leo Garcia, 709 Larch Street, South San Francisco.

Sugar 'n Spice Misery Behind?

Good morning, good cooks. Isn't it grand, vacation? No hurrying the children out of bed, into their clothes, through their breakfast and out the door to school.

No last-minute rush for lunch money. "It has to be a dime and a quarter. They don't like to give change," the piteous cry.

No sobs and screams over lost books, pencils and — for heavens sakes — shoes. How can you lose shoes in the house, overnight? (It's easy if you are 9½ years old.)

All this misery is behind us, for we have weeks-and-weeks of vacation ahead! Let's relax and enjoy it. Of course we could really relax and enjoy it if we could persuade our husbands that "vacation" means: "out to dinner every night." But who can be that persuasive?

Back to reality. What shall we prepare for dinner tonight. Would you believe Meatballs Cantonese-style? I hope so, for I have a mighty tasty dish to share with you, and it's really quite easy to mix and fix.

YOU start off by making the meatballs from this basic recipe. Then add all sorts of delicious vegetables and seasonings. Plus pineapple tidbits and almonds.

MEATBALLS

1 lb. ground beef
¼ cup fine dry bread crumbs two-thirds cup chopped onion
1 teas. salt
Dash of pepper
two-thirds cup evaporated milk
2 Tbsp. butter

Mix together the one pound ground beef, one-fourth cup bread crumbs, two-thirds cup chopped onion, one teaspoon salt, pepper and two-thirds cup milk in a medium size mixing bowl. Shape into meatballs.

Melt butter in a large skillet over medium heat. Add meatballs, turning occasionally to brown on all sides. Then combine with the rest of the ingredients.

NOTE: In place of fine dry bread crumbs, one of the following may be used as an extender; ¼ cup uncooked cornmeal, or two-thirds cup uncooked rolled oats, or 1 cup soft bread crumbs (approximately 1½ slices bread pulled into small crumbs), or ¼ cup finely crushed cornflake crumbs, or ¼ cup cracker crumbs.

MEATBALLS CANTONESE

1 recipe meatballs
1 can (13½ oz.) pineapple tidbits
1½ Tablespoons cornstarch
2 Tablespoons water
¼ cup vinegar
¼ cup sugar
2 teas. soy sauce
1 Tablespoon butter
½ cup green pepper strips, ¼ inch wide
1 cup sliced celery
1 large tomato, cut in wedges
¼ cup blanched whole almonds, toasted and salted

While meatballs are browning, drain the pineapple, saving liquid. Set pineapple aside.

Mix the one and one-half tablespoons cornstarch with the two tablespoons water to make a paste, then add to the pineapple liquid along with the one-fourth cups each vinegar and sugar and two teaspoons soy sauce.

WHEN the meatballs are browned, pour pineapple juice mixture over. Bring to a boil over medium heat. Cover skillet tightly, turn heat to low and simmer 20 minutes. Add the one tablespoon butter and stir until melted.

Add the drained pineapple, one-half cup each, onions and green pepper, one cup sliced celery and one large tomato cut in wedges. Stir lightly to mix with the sauce. Cover and continue cooking over low heat 10 minutes longer.

Before serving sprinkle with toasted almonds. Makes 6 servings. Serve over 4 cups hot cooked rice.

SINCE we are thinking along the line of Chinese cooking today, why not make some cookies to carry out the theme? These sesame cookies are very easy to make, make a large quantity and are the kind one finds in the Chinese restaurants.

SESAME COOKIES

¼ cups sugar
¼ cups lard
1 egg
4 cups flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt

Cream together the one and one-fourth cups each sugar and lard. Add the one egg and mix thoroughly. Sift the four cups flour, one-half teaspoon baking powder and one teaspoon salt together. Add to the creamed mixture and blend well. Knead thoroughly. Break off small pieces and form into smooth balls. Then roll in sesame seeds.

Place on lightly greased cookie sheet about one inch apart and bake in 350-degree oven about 15 minutes.

THESE next cookies are Chinese in name only. But they are mighty tasty and well worth your time and effort.

CHINESE CHEWS

½ cup flour
¼ teas. salt
¼ teas. cinnamon
¼ teas. nutmeg
½ teas. baking powder
two-thirds cup sugar
2 eggs
1 cup sliced dates
2 Tbsp. melted butter
1 cup chopped nuts

Sift together the one-half cup flour, one-fourth teaspoon each salt, cinnamon and nutmeg and the one-half teaspoon baking powder.

Beat the two eggs lightly and gradually add the two-thirds cup sugar, beat well. Add the two tablespoons melted butter and the 1 cup each dates and nuts. Lastly fold in the sifted ingredients. Mix thoroughly.

Pour in 8-inch greased square pan and bake in 350-degree oven about 30 minutes.

Candia Norris Seeks Challenge

Proverbs 24:5 tells us that "A man of knowledge increaseth strength." and Candia Dawn Norris, 17 years old and one of Oceana High School outstanding graduates of 1967, adheres strongly to the philosophy that students should work to better themselves personally, and, by continually striving for a higher insight and understanding, they will improve all that come in contact with them, directly or indirectly.

"I feel the major role of today's high school graduates is to work at bettering themselves, not only in terms of their career (be it marriage, job or college), but also to improve themselves personally, especially in thought and deed.

"If all of us make an effort to improve ourselves we are in turn improving our community," Candia said in making her comments about the future course of action for this month's graduating seniors.

CANDIA is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Norris of San Bruno and she has attended Oceana since she transferred from San Francisco's Washington High School three years ago.

The Norris family moved to the bay area in 1967 from Candia's home town, Kittery, Maine, after a brief stop over in Charleston, South Carolina, where she attended Charleston Heights Elementary school and then she transferred to California's Victorville Elementary school.

Once in this area she was enrolled in McKinley, Redding, Madison, Grant and Lafayette schools before entering Presidio Jr. high.

Candia evidently has the knack for absorbing the best each school offers because she arrived at Oceana with the background upon which to build a fine academic record. None of her teachers or schoolmates were the least surprised when she was awarded the Mizpah scholarship and the Oceana Courtesy Award when she graduated.

Though she admits that high school friends and activities will be sorely missed Candia feels ready for some larger challenge.

"I am greatly looking forward to my college days. I believe high school is a wonderful four year period of one's life, but at its end you should be ready for college," she said.

Candia has accomplished a great deal in the past four years.

In addition to maintaining an extremely high scholastic average she has served as the vice president of the California Scholarship Federation, secretary-treasurer of the Future Scientists of America, head of the committee for the Baccalaureate Mass and breakfast, head of the publicity committee for the junior prom and an active participant in the Girls' Athletic Association and the A Capella Choir.

She has served as a delegate to the model United Nations, has been an impromptu speaker at Speech Club tournaments, has represented Oceana as Student of the Month before the Pacifica Rotary Club and Candia was elected the Homecoming Queen and the senior class treasurer.

After spending the summer as an office worker in the Soule Steel company offices Candia will take up her studies at the University of California at Santa Barbara where she will be a pre-med. student.

Science has been her chief interest from the day she attended her first science class and when she reached high school and enrolled in biology that interest blossomed into a fascination.

Science is a limitless field, she explains, and one in which she will find a means to help her community and serve people.

"EVERY person you meet has something to offer. I enjoy people and combining that with my interest in science, I've developed a desire to become a doctor," she stated.

One of those who has helped Candia decide that her future lay in the sciences was Oceana Chemistry teacher Thomas Mohr of whom Candia says, "He is an intelligent man with a wonderful personality. He is a great chemistry teacher, the type that is always there to help you when you need it. It's this combination of qualities for which I like him and which set him apart as my favorite teacher."

During the summer weeks ahead Candia will try to find time to practice her favorite pastimes, swimming and tennis.

GRADUATES of a slightly younger age were guests at a hotdog luncheon in Sigmund Stern Grove last week.

Students of John Lupino, Sally Galway and Mrs. Myrtil Goodwin, were the honored by the Olympia-Rivera P-TA and received plaudits from Rivera's principal, Mrs. Iola KcKeown.

Mrs. Herbert Laders, Mrs. William Chalmers, Mrs. Louis Aguilera and Mrs. Murray H. Freedman served refreshments.

THE pre-kindergarten program, sponsored by the Jefferson Elementary School District, wound up its first year of operation with one sad note. Mrs. Gertrude Madrosen who served in the pilot program and then remained on for 15 months of devoted labor, has submitted her resignation as a member of the staff, effective June 30.

Mrs. Madrosen will return to her position as director of the Lakeside Presbyterian Church Nursery School in San Francisco. She reports that she will not lose all contact with this community program however, for many of the children with whom she has worked in the past months will be attending her summer session at Lakeside Church in August.

Anyone wishing information about the Lakeside program is asked to call Mrs. Madrosen at PL 5-9765.

NEW OFFICERS of the Allar and Rosary Sodality of the Church of the Good Shepherd will be installed tonight during the final meeting of the group until fall.

Mrs. Lorraine Johnson will take the office of president; Mrs. Mary Crotty, vice president; Mrs. Christine Piccolotti, recording secretary and Mrs. Marge Sekara, treasurer.

The candlelight ceremony will begin at 8 p.m. in the church and will be followed by a brief business meeting in the parish hall. Members and guests will then proceed to Ramanos for pizza. The meeting is open to all the women of the parish, Mrs. Terry Murphy, publicity chairman, announced.

MEMBERS of the Pacifica Art Guild executive board will meet at 8 p.m. on Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Lillian Neathery.

MRS. WILLIAM BUSSENIUS, Mrs. Clement Flerchinger, Mrs. H. Robinson Plate, Mrs. William Kenough and Margery McGill were honored guests at the new members luncheon given by the members of the North Peninsula Circle for the Florence Crittenton Home in the home of Mrs. John Doelger.

Margery Lawrence, the co-ordinator of service for the home, was the guest speaker for the afternoon. Executive board members present included Mrs. John Wuerthner, Mrs. Eugene Crandall, Mrs. Jerry Stringer, Mrs. Michael Orlich, Mrs. Edward Odenthal, Mrs. Peter Markovich, Mrs. Murray H. Freedman, Mrs. William Jabin, Mrs. Thomas Bocci and Mrs. Charles Poggio.

MRS. MARGARET KERNS was installed the president of the Holy Angels Womens Guild during recent candlelight ceremonies in the church sanctuary.

Mrs. Virginia Simon, the retiring president, presided over the formal installation of Mrs. Kerns and her officers who include, Mrs. Theresa Bernie, first vice president; Mrs. Stella Smith, second vice president; Mrs. Patricia Carroll, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Chris Siggle, treasurer.

THE REGULAR meeting of the Fifty-Plus club on Tuesday will be highlighted by the presentation of the nominating committees recommendations for officers for the coming year and by the appearance of several experts who will speak on the proposed hotel-type housing and the garden type housing being considered for senior citizens in the Pacifica area.

Persons interested in the housing discussion are invited to attend, says Mrs. Edna Laurel Calhan, club president.

ANNE ARMSTRONG
Engaged

Daly City Man to Wed Next Year

Mr. and Mrs. Aldo Barera of Sunnyvale announce the engagement of their daughter, Anne Armstrong, to Michael Robert Keelen, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Keelen of Daly City. The couple will be married in June of next year.

Anne is the sister of Barbara and Janet Armstrong. She attended Westmoor High School in Daly City and the College of San Mateo.

Michael is the brother of Peter and Janice Keelen. He also studied at Westmoor, and CSM and is in training with a brokerage firm in San Francisco. The future bridegroom is a member of the California National guard.

VARIED casseroles — eggplant, noodle, rice, beef and chicken — salads and fancy desserts were prepared recently by staff members of the North County Mental Health Center, 45 South Southgate, Daly City, for volunteers who work at the center. Dr. Howard Gurevitz, center executive director, praised volunteers for "their invaluable time and help in working with patients," and for their clerical help. Above, Gurevitz presents engraved silver bowl on behalf of volunteers and staff alike to retiring president of the volunteers, Mrs. Roy J. Tierney.

BRIDAL SHOWER — Serve refreshing Orange Bavarian and ask friends to bring gifts suitable for making and serving desserts!

A Dessert Shower For Bride's Party

WANT A NEW idea for a party for the bride?

Give her a Dessert Shower. Ask the guests to bring gifts appropriate for making and serving that last delicious course of a meal.

There's lots of latitude here. Call the roll: mammoth glass compote; berry bowl set; cake knife or cake comb; pie server; individual dessert plates; par-fair and liqueur glasses; demitasse cups and spoons; cake and pie pans or plates; a casserole or open baker for pudding; candy server; iced tea and coffee spoons; ladies (small or medium size) for serving dessert sauces. We'll stop here, but we're sure you'll have even more nominations.

For a dessert shower, you must of course serve the bride and her friends a delectable dessert. What's our suggestion? Orange Bavarian. It's really quite simple to prepare and delightfully refreshing. Just to save the cook a last-minute chore, Orange Bavarian is turned into a pretty glass serving dish so it doesn't have to be unmolded.

ORANGE BAVARIAN

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¼ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
4 eggs, separated
¼ cup cold water
1 can (6 ounces) frozen orange juice concentrate, kept frozen
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
Garnish.

In a medium saucepan (about 2½ quarts) or metal round-bottom mixing bowl, stir together the gelatin, ¼ cup of the sugar and the salt. In a small mixing bowl, beat together the egg yolks and water until blended; stir into gelatin mixture. Place over low heat; stir constantly around bottom and sides of pan — a rubber spatula does a good job — until latin dissolves and mixture thickens slightly — about 5 minutes. Remove from heat; add frozen orange juice concentrate and stir until melted. Mixture should mound slightly when dropped from a spoon. (If mixture is too runny to mound, chill for a few minutes.) In a medium mixing bowl, beat egg whites until foamy; add cream of tartar and beat until whites hold slightly curled — over peaks when beater is slowly withdrawn; gradually beat in remaining ¼-cup sugar; continue beating if necessary until whites hold stiff straight peaks; fold into gelatin mixture; fold in whipped cream. Turn into a 2 to 2½ quart serving dish. Chill until set — several hours. Garnish with extra whipped cream (sweetened to taste and vanilla-flavored) and fresh orange sections. Serve without unmolding. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Some Dishes To Try With The Barbecue

The hot days of summer are coming, there's a scrubbed shiny moon and fragrant breezes and boy, are we hungry!

Dust off the long-handled barbecue tools and grill. Drag out the charcoal and pile the food to be cooked on trays.

Put the men to work building a fire, at least 1 hour before cooking time to allow coals to turn gray and give an even heat. This permits even browning, juicy food without the "burned cinder" taste and look.

Grease the grill to prevent sticking and keep a sprinkler filled with water handy to douse sudden flare-ups. Pass a dunk and crackers to keep appetites in check 'til supper's ready.

Creamy Bean Dunk
Corn Chip Crackers
Broiled
Butterfly Rock Lobster
Tails
Foil Baked Tomato Halves
Hot Potato Salad
Fruit and Cheese Platter
Iced Tea

Creamy Bean Dunk
8 ounces cream cheese, softened
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed black bean soup
2 tablespoons grated onion
Dash "Tabasco" sauce
Dash garlic powder

Beat cream cheese with rotary beater or electric mixer until smooth. Gradually add remaining ingredients; blend thoroughly. Chill. About 2½ cups.

QUICK TIPS
Broiled Butterfly Rock Lobster Tails: Split frozen rock lobster tails lengthwise cutting through hard shell almost to underside membrane. Open out. Place tails meat side down 6 inches away from gray coals. Broil 8 to 10 minutes. Turn; brush with ½ cup melted butter. Broil another 8 to 10 minutes or until rock lobster becomes white.

Foil Baked Tomatoes: Cut tomatoes in half crosswise; brush with melted butter; sprinkle with salt, pepper, and curry powder. Wrap in aluminum foil and bake at edge of hot grill about 10 minutes, or until tender.

Discotheque Dinner For Teeners

DISCOTHEQUE SUPPER — When the house churns with youthful merriment and the young weekenders get hungry, set up a do-it-yourself supper. Beef souper burgers are a main dish which teen-agers like to make — and love to eat.

SUMMER COOKING — A skillet-style combination of tuna and vegetables makes a satisfying main dish for lunch or supper.

Skillet-Type Tuna And Vegetable Dish

WARM-WEATHER COOKS who are on the lookout for main dishes that may be cooked on top of the range may be interested to try this new combination.

Inspired by Japanese cuisine, it teams tuna with such a good combination of fresh vegetables as carrot, scallion, celery and spinach. Canned bamboo shoots are added, too, and they help to make the dish interesting.

Steamed rice is of course a fine accompaniment for this skillet-style tuna and vegetable combination. And soy sauce should be on the table for those eaters who would like to add this seasoning. We found that adding a touch of soy just suited our tasters.

- SKILLET-STYLE TUNA AND VEGETABLES
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
 - 1 cup thinly sliced carrots (cut in 2 inch lengths)
 - 1 cup diagonally sliced scallions
 - 1 cup diagonally sliced celery
 - 2 cans (each 7 ounces) solid white meat tuna, drained and broken into chunks
 - 1 can (5 ounces) sliced bamboo shoots, drained
 - 2 teaspoon salt
 - ¼ teaspoon monosodium glutamate
 - ½ cup dry sherry
 - 1 vegetable bouillon cube dissolved in ½ cup hot water
 - ¼ pound spinach, knife-shredded coarsely
 - Hot cooked rice
 - Soy sauce

Asparagus Prepared For Company

If you have a really large skillet, you'll find it's simple to cook asparagus for company.

Lamb Chops Broiled with Kidneys and Cherry Tomatoes

Company Asparagus with Hollandaise

Strawberry Bowl

Beverage

COMPANY ASPARAGUS

2 bunches (each about 2½ pounds) medium-thick asparagus

1 quart boiling water

1 teaspoon salt

With a swivel-blade vegetable peeler remove the fibrous outer covering of the asparagus stalks up to the buds. Wash in scalding hot water and rinse in cold water. Place in a deep 12-inch skillet; add boiling water and salt. Bring to a boil; cover and boil vigorously, using tongs to turn spears midway, just until tender-crisp — about 6 minutes. Drain and place in folds of a white linen napkin on a large serving dish. Serve at once with Hollandaise Sauce. Makes 8 to 12 servings if asparagus bunches each have about 3 dozen stalks.

Delightful Cookie; Try Lacy Wafers

Really Lacy Wafers

REALLY LACY WAFERS

- ½ cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 2-3 cup unblanched grated almonds (use a hand-operated rotary-cone device)
- 2 tablespoons milk
- ¼ cup (1 stick) butter

In a 10-inch skillet mix together the sugar, flour, almonds and milk; add butter. Slowly heat until butter melts; stir several times to distribute butter evenly. Drop by heaping teaspoonfuls, several inches apart, on buttered and floured cookie sheets. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven until lacy and slightly browned — 6 to 8 minutes. Cool 30 to 60 seconds or just until wafers can be removed with wide spatula without crinkling — then remove to wire racks to cool. Store in one-hour before broiling or setting to sizzle over glowing coals. 3½ dozen.

3 Injured

In SSF Crash

Three persons were injured, two seriously, in a three-car collision on El Camino Real near Country Club Drive in South San Francisco last Tuesday police said.

A Millbrae man, Thomas F. Lee, 25, of 228 Paramount Drive, is listed in fair condition at Peninsula Hospital with multiple rib fractures and a fractured right hip.

Anthony H. Hampel, 75, of 221 Delmonte Avenue, South San Francisco, is in satisfactory condition with a leg fracture, hospital authorities said, and a San Bruno woman, Mary Kathryn Debut, was treated for minor injuries and later released.

Police said the wreck occurred about 7:30 p.m. when a car driven by Lee apparently swerved over the center line and into the path of a vehicle.

Mrs. Debut's vehicle, which was southbound on El Camino, then struck the rear of the Hampel car, according to police.

W. C. LASSWELL MORTICIANS

1444 MISSION ST. DALY CITY PL 5-0660

TO COMMEMORATE THE 25 years of dedicated public service by the Peninsula Memorial Blood Bank, organized labor of San Mateo County held the first of its semi-annual blood drives on Saturday morning, June 3. More than 3,000 craftsmen and their wives appeared as blood donors and to enjoy the occasion. Council President Sam Abruscato, right, opened the event in his remarks to President U. S. Simonds, Jr., left, and Administrator Mrs. Paul J. Hanzlik. Charles R. Young of San Bruno carpenters union was chairman of the day. Teamsters Local 85 was tops again with 114 donors. Plumbers Local Union 467 was second with 50 donors.

Jefferson Lay Advisory Group Named

A Jefferson Union High School District Work Experience Education lay advisory committee has been confirmed by district trustees in Daly City.

The 13-member body recently held its first session to discuss the 11-point role it has in serving in an advisory capacity to the Work Experience Education program.

Program supervisor is Paul Perez, whose offices are in the year-old Thornton High School in Daly City.

Named to serve on the committee were Ralph Barkey of the Pacifica Tribune; Bill Hammer, manager of the Linda Mar Shopping Center Grant's Store in Pacifica; Al Polonsky, city attorney, Daly City; Peter Markovich, Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce manager; Frank Walsh of Brisbane; Glen Weman of Daly City, assistant executive director of the County Housing Authority;

Bob Bernicchi, North San Mateo County Sanitation District engineer-manager; North County municipal judge Paul M. Hupf; Karl Ziegler, branch supervisor of the Central Youth Opportunity Center in San Francisco; Henry Medrano, Neighborhood Youth Corps director, of San Carlos; Dion Dubois, president of the Jefferson High School American Federation of Teachers; James McKenzie, president of the HUSD Teachers Association, and T. A. Small of Pacifica, of the Bartenders and Culinary Workers, Local No. 340.

Program supervisor Perez explained that the committee was formed to help publicize the program in the community, locate training jobs; obtain program equipment and materials; make recommendations concerning key parts of the program—such as enrollment, remedial education and job development;

Arrange special events for enrollees, determine a course of action on general problems that arise, acts as a "sounding board" for new ideas, helps maintain good community relations, assist in making surveys, provide information concerning resource persons and programs available for program refinement and continually evaluate the program.

Police Find Widow Dead From Gunshot

A Daly City widow, despondent over the recent death of her husband, apparently shot and killed herself Sunday at the home of a son on Southdale Avenue.

Mrs. Dorothy Lincoln Posnak, 59, shot herself in the heart with a .38-caliber automatic while sitting in bed shortly after 8 p.m., police said.

She was pronounced dead on arrival at Mary's Help Hospital. In a suicide note, Mrs. Posnak said she was taking her life because of despondency over the recent death of her husband and ill health.

Restaurant Owners Tell Unity Position

The San Mateo County Restaurant-Hotel Owners' Association has informed Local 340 of the Bartenders and Culinary Workers' Union, AFL-CIO, that its vote of approval of "economic sanctions" against yet-to-be selected restaurants and hotels will be considered action taken against all members of the Association.

The union has been informed by letter that the "employers of this association shall consider a strike or picketing against one or more members of the association to be a strike or picketing against all members."

A restaurant spokesman said that if picket lines were put around one of the association members then all could conceivably close down.

The contract between the union and the association expired December 31 last year, and negotiations between the two parties have been continuing for nine months.

As matters stand now, the union wants a three-year contract and a 25 1/2 per cent wage increase and fringe benefits, 10 per cent the first year, 8 per cent the second, and 7 1/2 per cent the third. This represents an increase from original demands for a two-year contract, and a pay hike of 12 1/2 per cent.

The association is offering a 15 1/2 per cent increase, 6 per cent the first year, 5 per cent the second, and 4 1/2 per cent the third, and improved fringe benefits.

The association has asked the union for a mail referendum vote by the local's membership on management's wage proposal, but it has been refused.

The association represents more than 100 major restaurants and hotels from Daly City to Menlo Park. The union has about 5,600 workers, some 80 per cent of whom are employed in association establishments.

The association position is that the union's salary demands are exorbitant since the industry is experiencing a business decline which may be a reflection of resistance to existing prices by the public, and increased competition by take-home-food franchise operations, most of which are non-union establishments.

Teeners Captured With Load of Loot

Daly City policeman Roger Austin thought something was amiss when he spotted two teen-agers wheeling a shopping cart full of musical instruments down the street Sunday night.

The time was 15 minutes before midnight and the place was the sprawling Westlake Shopping Center.

When neither youth could offer a plausible explanation for the small fortune in instruments they were quietly carting into the darkness, officer Austin placed them in custody and began checking doors at the nearby Westlake Music Center.

A not-surprised Austin found the music center's door forced open and the interior ransacked.

The unidentified youths were sent to Hillcrest Youth Guidance Center. The musical instruments placed back on the shelves. And the shopping cart wheeled back to the supermarket.

Brisbane Nixes Bruno Conveyor

Brisbane councilmen adopted an ordinance aimed at blocking a proposed conveyor system to transport fill from San Bruno Mountain to the San Francisco Bay last Monday.

A spokesman for Westbay Community Associates, developers of the proposed 3,000-acre bay fill project, declined to comment on the council action, stating "it is too soon to evaluate the ultimate effect it will have on our plans."

Last month, a spokesman for the firm predicted the city's blocking of the conveyor belt system would result in abandonment of the project, "because the conveyor is the most economically feasible method."

Before adopting the ordinance, which prohibits "the occupying of air space above and space below city rights-of-way," councilmen heard a request for an amendment from a Pacific Gas and Electric Company representative.

George Schmidt, manager of the PG&E district office in South San Francisco, told the council the ordinance in its present form has the effect of rendering power and gas lines illegal.

He proposed that it be amended to provide that "the ordinance shall not be applicable to any public utility or publicly owned facility operating within the city for the purpose of supplying electric power, gas, water communications or any other utility service."

The council voted to adopt the ordinance in its original form, after assuring Schmidt amendments could be adopted later.

Councilmen Jess Salmon and Robert McLennan voted against the ordinance Monday, stating they felt the matter needed further study.

Mother Finds Marijuana In Girl's Effects

A Pacifica housewife, going through her 14-year-old daughter's personal effects Sunday, found a packet of marijuana and a water-type pipe.

The girl, who was taken to the Hillcrest juvenile home for possession of marijuana, as a result, told Pacifica police she had purchased the green vegetable matter from a boy for $1.

Pacifica's Palmetto Plan Wins Despite Objections

Pacifica councilmen adopted resolutions authorizing the $387,000 Palmetto Avenue Improvement District last Wednesday over protests of 29 per cent of the property owners in the affected areas.

The council voted approval of City Engr. Kenneth Thompson's report on the project, and adopted a resolution overruling protests after a two-hour public hearing before a capacity crowd at city hall.

Two small streets within the district, Bonita and Genevieve, were deleted from the project after a majority of property owners on the streets protested the assessment district.

Approved
The remainder of the project was approved intact, with a provision authorizing the public works director to make necessary changes during the course of work.

Most of the protests against the new improvement district were based on cost of the proposed project, which will average approximately $21 per front foot, exclusive of drainage improvement costs.

Many of the protestors noted they had signed petitions requesting formation of the district two years ago, but estimates of costs at that time were less than half the figures presented.

Thompson pointed out that all construction costs have risen sharply during the past two years, and noted that the low bid on the project was approximately $126,000 below the estimate submitted by his office several months ago.

"Furthermore, I can assure you we would be unable to acquire the project at this price a year from now," he said.

There was considerable confusion at the hearing over the inclusion within the district of several small streets where a majority of property owners opposed the project.

Small Street
This circumstance resulted from the grouping of smaller streets into single larger units, Thompson said, with a majority of property owners in the larger units approving the project.

Complaints were also registered over the fact that Palmetto Avenue, the largest street in the district, will be constructed at a 50-foot width, when the standard subdivision street in the city is 32 feet wide.

"This street is designed for business and commercial use," protestors said, "and we do not understand why we should have to pay extra for providing this wider street for a business community that may never materialize."

Thompson also emphasized that property owners will not share the cost of improvements on streets other than their own, except in the case of drainage improvements.

"Some residents who have no drainage problem are being assessed for drainage," he said, "because property at the top of a hill contributes to the drainage problems at lower levels."

Residents of Genevieve Street protested the proposed use of concrete surface material on the street, when most other streets are to be constructed of asphalt, which is considerably less expensive.

Engineers maintained that the grade on the street is too severe to successfully utilize asphalt.

Several property owners with less than 50 feet of frontage on streets within the districts protested their assessments, which are based on a minimum 50-foot frontage rate.

Thompson said these lots with "short frontage" derive full benefit from the streets, and were assessed at the standard rate on that basis.

Teenager Hurt In Cooking Fire Mishap

A Pacifica teen-ager was injured June 13 when his efforts to cook a hamburger resulted in a near disaster.

Michael Westergren, son of Richard Westergren, 294 Imperial Drive, was treated for severe lacerations after he set fire to the family apartment when he fell upon a broken glass while attempting to extinguish the blaze.

A fire department spokesman said the youth, alone in the apartment, cooked a hamburger on an electric stove, then turned of a switch he thought controlled the burner he had used.

Pacifica Girl Falls, Unhurt

A three-year-old Pacifica girl, Lana Hazen apparently was unhurt when she fell 20 feet from a second floor balcony of an apartment building last week.

Pacifica police said the girl fell over the balcony railing at 168 Pacifica, in the Sharp Park region, hitting a log on the ground, at 11:14 a.m. She was taken to Kaiser Hospital, South San Francisco, for emergency treatment, but was not admitted, a hospital spokesman said.

Beef Roasts Pamper Pocketbook; Tempting Budget Cuts Pay Off in Results

CALIFORNIA BEEF PAMPER POCKETBOOK
The way to a man's heart is through his stomach and his pocketbook. Budget cuts of flavorful California beef need a bit more care, but the tempting results pay off. After initial preparation, these delicious beef dishes are covered and set for a long lazy simmer. A few last minute details and a memorable dinner is done.
A lean blade beef roast is a good buy. Simply seasoned, it cooks to succulent tenderness in tomato juice. Onions, potatoes and carrots complete the meal. If desired, parboil the vegetables 10 minutes and place around the roast the last 30 to 40 minutes of cooking. The pan gravy is a nice serving consistency, but it can also be thick-

Rhubarb With Strawberries Is Enjoyable

One of the most enjoyable ways to prepare rhubarb! Frypan Lamb Chops Potatoes Snap Beans Sald Bowl Rhubarb with Strawberries
RHUBARB WITH STRAWBERRIES
1/2 small bunch (1/2 pound) pink or red rhubarb
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup water
1 package (10 ounces) frozen sweetened strawberry halves, defrosted
Remove any leaves from rhubarb; wash but do not peel; cut crosswise in 1-inch long slanted pieces. Into a 1-quart saucepan turn the sugar and water; bring quickly to boiling, stirring twice; remove from heat; cover; chill. Just before serving, gently stir in strawberries taking care not to break up rhubarb pieces. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

CRABMEAT QUICHE
1 can (7 1/2 ounces) king crab with tendons removed 9-inch unbaked pastry shell with a high fluted rim
4 eggs
1 1/2 cups heavy cream
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
Drain crabmeat and scatter over unbaked pastry shell. In a medium mixing bowl, beat the eggs enough to combine yolks and whites; add heavy cream, salt and pepper; beat to combine; pour over crabmeat. Sprinkle grated Parmesan cheese over the top. Bake in a very hot (450 degrees) oven for 10 minutes; reduce heat to moderate (350 degrees) and continue baking until a knife inserted in center comes out clean about 35 minutes. Serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

Special Pie

Place triangles of dough from one can refrigerated quick crescent dinner rolls in a 9-inch pie pan, pressing pieces together to form a crust. Fill with your favorite meat pie filling. Top with crumbled potato chips. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes.

ened slightly with a little cornstarch mixed with cold water.
Stuff and bake a beef heart. Notable for its nutritive value and economy, this variety meat is a delicacy when properly prepared. A savory crumb stuffing with accents of onion, bacon and pimiento and a tangy horseradish gave perfectly complement the flavor of beef heart.
Flavorful round steak is always a favorite. Lean and boneless with little waste, this versatile beef cut stars in an array of captivating recipes, with an intriguing Spanish touch, it's a special treat, gently simmer beef in onions, tomato soup and vegetable juice and later add potatoes, green beans, zucchini and stuffed green olives. It makes a continental one-dish dinner for the crowd. If you're cooking just for the family, serve half, then package and freeze the rest for another meal.

BEEF POT ROAST
Winning way with flavorful California beef pot roast is easy on the budget.
3 1/2 pound blade beef roast
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon garlic salt
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon dry mustard
2 tablespoons cooking oil

11 cups tomato juice
1 cup water
Rub beef with flour mixed with salt, paprika and mustard. Brown slowly on both sides in hot oil in Dutch oven. Add tomato juice and water. Cover tightly. Simmer 1 1/2 to 2 hours until tender. Serve with onions, potatoes and carrots. Makes 4 servings.
BAKED STUFFED BEEF HEART
Wholesome beef heart brings pleasing variety to menu.
1 (3 to 4-pound) beef heart
3 slices bacon
1 tablespoon instant minced onion

3 tablespoons melted butter
2 cups soft bread crumbs
1 tablespoon chopped pimiento
Salt
Pepper
1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning
Seasoned flour
1 1/2 cups water
Prepared horseradish
Remove coarse fibers, veins and arteries from heart with sharp pointed knife or kitchen scissors. Wash thoroughly in cold water. Fry bacon until crisp; reserve drippings. Combine crumbled bacon with onion, butter, bread crumbs, pimiento,

1 - teaspoon salt, 1/4-teaspoon pepper and poultry seasoning. Fill heart with stuffing. Skewer opening together. Roll in seasoned flour and brown on all sides in bacon drippings in Dutch oven. Add water. Cover and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 2 1/2 to 3 hours, turning once. Remove heart and make gravy, if desired. Add a smooth flour - water paste (2 tablespoons each flour and water per cut of broth). Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture is thickened and smooth. Season to taste with salt, pepper and horseradish. Makes 4 to 6 servings.
SPANISH BEEF STEAK
A rainbow of colors, this tantalizing beef dish can be prepared early in the day and reheated for serving.
3 to 3 1/2 pounds beef round steak (1/2-inch thick)
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1/4 cup cooking oil
2 sliced large onions
1 (10 1/2-ounce) can condensed tomato soup
1 cup mixed vegetable juice
1 1/2 pounds small new potatoes
1 pound green beans

6 sliced medium zucchini
1 (5-ounce) jar stuffed green olives
Cut beef into 4 - inch squares and coat with flour mixed with salt, pepper and cloves. Brown quickly, a few at a time, in oil Dutch oven or heavy pot. Stir in onions, tomato soup and vegetable juice. Cover and simmer 1 1/2 hours or until meat is tender. Cut off a band of skin around middle of each scrubbed potato, add with beans to beef. Cook 20 minutes longer. Add zucchini and sliced olives. Cook 10 minutes more or until vegetables are crisp - tender. Makes 12 servings.

A Sirloin of Beef Dinner Fit for Chief of State, and So Served

By ROSA TUSA
Milwaukee Sentinel
Food Editor

When His Excellency Cevdet Sunay, president of the republic of Turkey, and Mrs. Sunay were entertained by the President and Mrs. Johnson recently, the state dinner at the White House featured typically American "meat and potatoes." It was of course, meat and potatoes with a difference. Viva la difference! Sirloin of beef, the ultimate in beef roasts, was the meat.

It was served with a red wine sauce and came to the table with almond potato puffs fried deep golden brown. The dinner for the distinguished White House guests was prepared by Swiss born Henry Haller who was selected for the job of the nation's "first chef" when his French predecessor, Rene Verdon, quit last January in a dispute over gastronomic tastes at the White House. The Johnsons, after an apparent overdose of French cuisine, were delighted to find that the new chef has had wide experience in preparing American as well as continental fare.

The cuisine of the United States is not easily explained to its citizenry, let alone to the rest of the world, but Haller, whose forte is French cooking, appears to have the ability to integrate the two palatably.

Haller, 44, was executive chef at the Sheraton-East hotel in New York city before he took over the kitchen at 1600 Pennsylvania ave. in Washington, D.C. He was educated in Switzerland and served his apprenticeship in Swiss hotels where he held various positions, among them sauce chef.

During a private audience in the White House kitchens a few hours before the state dinner, he beckoned the writer to "come quickly now" and recited the recipe for his red wine sauce, along with some pertinent tips on sauce making.

"The shallot is essential to make a good sauce," he declared and added with genuine bewilderment: "I can't understand why more Americans don't use it."

A cross between onion and garlic, the shallot looks like an onion but grows as garlic does, in a compact group of individual "cloves." Shallots are always very finely chopped and sauteed without browning. They blend smoothly into sauces and are easily digestible.

IN THE SAUCE WORLD, all is not brown and white. To master the shades of color and infinite flavor variations, Haller said, a perfect brown sauce is basic. The French call this sauce espagnole, or Spanish sauce.

There are two stories behind the name. Some claim it's because the dark sauce reminded the French of the dusky complexion of a pretty Spanish girl. The name Allemande for white sauce, madeira with a good amount of chopped truffles. After the "Spanish girl sauce" is mastered, Chef Haller's red wine sauce is extremely simple to make, he said.

SAUCE ESPAGNOLE (Brown Sauce)

In a heavy saucepan melt one-half cup beef, veal or pork fat — or use clarified butter. Cook in the fat, one small carrot and two medium onions, coarsely chopped, until they just begin to turn golden. Add one-half cup flour and cook, stirring frequently, until the roux takes on a good hazelnut brown color and the carrot and onions are brown. Bring to a boil. Add three cups hot brown stock, one clove garlic, a bouquet garni made by tying together one stalk celery, three or four springs parsley, a small bay leaf, and a pinch of thyme. Cook, stirring frequently, until thickened and add three more cups hot stock. Cook the sauce very slowly over very low heat, stirring occasionally, for one to one and one-half hours, or until it is reduced to about three cups. As it cooks, skim off excess fat. Add one-fourth cup tomato sauce or one-half cup tomato puree. Cook the sauce for a few minutes longer. Remove the bouquet garni and strain the sauce through a fine sieve. Add two cups hot stock and cook the sauce slowly for about one hour more, or until it is reduced to about four cups, skimming it from time to time. Cool. Freeze if desired, in small containers.

RED WINE SAUCE

Saute one tablespoon chopped shallots in one-half tablespoon melted butter. Add one cup dry red wine and one teaspoon white crushed pepper and a bay leaf. Reduce to one-half and add one pint brown sauce. Simmer for about one-half hour and strain through a cheesecloth. This sauce is also delicious served with filet of beef.

SHARING THE responsibility for preparing the state dinner for the Turkish president was the pastry chef, Ferdinand Louvat, who pitched into help carve Spanish melons after he finished making an assortment of fancy cookies for the party. Among those we sampled were tules with almonds — so named because they have the curve of a roofing tile (tule).

TULES WITH ALMONDS

1/2 cup sugar
2 cup sifted flour
1/2 cup sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
1/2 teaspoon pure vanilla
1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter
1/2 cup blanched almonds, finely shredded
Confectioners' sugar

Beat the sugar with the egg whites until the egg whites are frothy. Stir in the next five ingredients. Mix well. Drop the batter from a teaspoon in mounds the size of a quarter onto lightly buttered baking sheets or pipe through a pastry bag onto lightly buttered baking sheets, leaving two inches between cookies to allow room for spreading. Sprinkle tops with confectioners' sugar. Bake the cookies in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) eight minutes, or until they have browned lightly around the edges. Cool one-half minute on the baking sheets, then remove, and while the cookies are still hot, bend them around a small rolling pin or small glass to give them the shape of a curved roofing tile. Store cookies in tightly closed container. Makes about two and one-half dozen.

FASHIONING POTATO croquettes by the hundreds were Julian Farrow, who has been a cook in the nation's top kitchen for 10 years, and a young helper, Franklin Blair, 23. Completing the White House cooking team is Zephyr Wright, the Johnson family cook who had the day off.

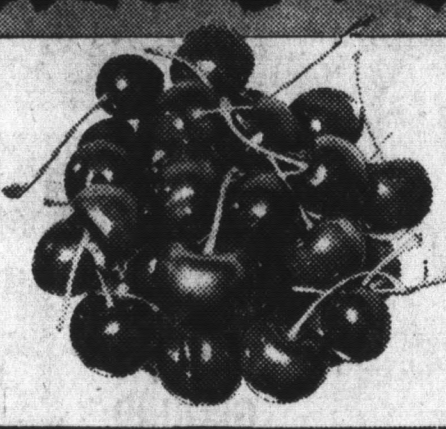

Despite the obvious pressures involved in cooking for the president and his distinguished guests, which that evening numbered about 130, the staff was jovial and engaged in relaxed banter with Haller. Their smiles faded when an aide entered the kitchens to announce "the count is up — give us 15 more platters!"

ALMOND POTATO CROQUETTES

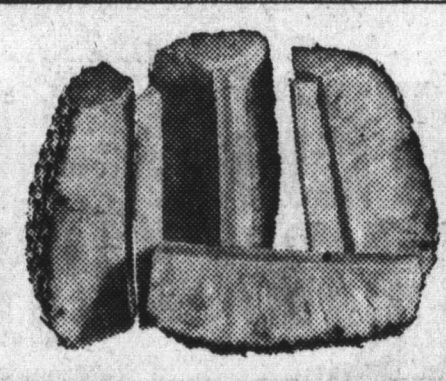

1 teaspoon salt
2 pounds potatoes teaspoon ground white pepper
3 whole eggs and 2 egg yolks
Flour

Blanched almond shavings
Peel and quarter potatoes. Cook until soft in a covered saucepan with one inch boiling water and the salt. Drain potatoes well and put them through a rice or food mill. Add pepper. Beat two of the whole egg yolks together until light and foamy and add to potatoes. Whip the mixture until fluffy. Sprinkle a pastry board lightly with flour and shape the potatoes into croquettes or balls. Beat the remaining egg slightly. Dip croquettes in beaten egg and then roll them in thin blanched almond shavings. Fry in deep fat preheated to 375 degrees until browned. Drain on paper towels.

Sunbather's Lunch For a Lazy Daisy

Sunbather's Lunch — Lazy daisy — rushing's crazy — I'm going to glue myself to the patio lounge and have a chilled-through lunch in the sun.

Crisp Sesame Crackers
Sunburst Salad
Deviled Eggs
Raspberry Sherbet
Iced Coffee Milk
Sundowner — Open a dinner in the style of the great chefs with a cream soup steaming in rimmed bowls. Roast a chicken with quick-to-fix savory stuffing and presto! You have a successful party.

Cream of Shrimp Soup
Roast Chicken With Quick Stuffing
Green Beans Almondine
Beets in Orange Sauce
Green Onions, Radishes, Olives
Lemony Boston Cream Pie
Demitasse Milk
Quick Stuffing
can (10½ ounces) condensed cream of chicken soup
½ cup water
1 package (8 ounces) herb-seasoned stuffing
Blend soup and water; mix lightly with stuffing. Makes about 4 cups stuffing or enough for a 3-to-4-pound bird. NOTE: If desired, add ¼ cup melted butter; reduce water to ½ cup.

QUICK TIPS
Sunburst Salad: Surround a small round tomato aspic mold with endive leaves to resemble a sunburst. Fill each leaf with mixed grated carrots, chopped celery, and parsley. Serve with French dressing.

Beets in Orange Sauce: Melt ¼ cup butter; stir in 1 cup orange juice mixed with 1 tablespoon cornstarch. Cook until thickened. Stir in 1 tablespoon

SPECIAL BLT SANDWICHES
¼ cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons chili sauce
½ tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 very small scallion (including green top), finely chopped
4 slices bread, toasted
4 to 6 strips bacon, crisp-cooked
Lettuce
1 small tomato, thinly sliced
In a small container stir together the mayonnaise, chili sauce, Worcestershire and scallion. Spread this dressing on the toast. Place the bacon, lettuce and tomato on 2 slices, spoon additional dressing over all and cover with 2 slices. Makes 2 hefty servings.

Guacamole, Corn Chips Is Delicious

One of the most delicious first courses you can serve:

Chili Chicken with Rice
Snap Beans
Caramel Custard
Beverage

GUACAMOLE WITH CORN CHIPS
3 ripe medium avocados
¼ cup finely chopped shallot or scallion bulb
Juice of 1 medium lime
½ teaspoon salt
8 ounces (about) corn chips
Halve avocados lengthwise; twist apart; remove seeds; peel. Mash fine (there should be 2 cups). Mix in the shallot, lime juice (there should be 2 tablespoons) and salt. Serve at once (or mixture will darken) with corn chips for scooping up the avocado dip. Makes 4 generous servings. Because the strength of shallots varies as does the acidity of lime juice, you may need to adjust the amounts given in this recipe.

Hot Sandwich

Prepare refrigerated hungry jack biscuits as directed on label. Split open biscuit. Spoon a generous portion of chopped dried beef, mushroom soup, sliced ripe olives, and dried pineapple mixture over biscuit. Serve with assorted relishes and top off your lunch with a mixed fruit cup.

Casserole

Make a hit with your family — 25 minutes before your favorite casserole is done, remove it from the oven. Arrange refrigerated country style or butter-milk biscuits which have been dipped in melted butter and dried parsley flakes and arrange around the edge of the casserole. Bake remaining 25 minutes. They'll want you to serve it again.

Tropical Flavor new taste for chiffon cake. Prepare your favorite chiffon cake recipe, but omit the vanilla and use canned pineapple juice in place of water. Light, lovely and luscious.

A Diet Luncheon for Bridge or Garden

Diet Club Luncheon — When the garden or bridge club members meet they talk about pounds (not sterling, mind you). And, lunch is dainty and low in calories. When your turn comes around, one of these pretty baskets at each plate will mark you as best hostess of the week.

Celebration Dinner — Ask any man what his favorite dish might be and you'll probably get "steak" for an answer. Broccoli with cheese sauce and a baked potato, he'll tell you, "makes it close to perfection." If you're planning this menu to celebrate a special occasion in the life of your man, you'll find this version of cheese soup sauce is surprisingly easy and good.

Broiled Steak
Broccoli Baked in Cheese Sauce
Baked Potato
Lettuce Wedges with Russian Dressing
Strawberry Surprise Pie
Iced Tea Milk

Broccoli Baked in Cheese Sauce
2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen broccoli, cooked and drained
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed Cheddar cheese soup
¼ cup milk
¼ cup buttered bread crumbs

Place broccoli in shallow baking dish (10x6x2"). Blend soup and milk; pour over broccoli. Top with crumbs. Bake in 350-degree F. oven about 30 minutes or until hot and bubbling. Six to 8 servings.

QUICK TIPS
Pineapple Basket Salad: Cut fresh pineapples into halves lengthwise. Scoop out pineapple; dice. Mix with sliced peaches, plums, melon balls and sliced bananas. Moisten with a little orange juice, if desired. Refill pineapple shells.

Strawberry Surprise Pie
Bake a 9-inch pie crust. Prepare strawberry gelatin; chill, until thick. Beat until fluffy. Fill cooled pie shell; top with sweetened whipped cream. Press fresh strawberries tip up into cream until top is covered. Chill.

Ham Sandwich

Roll thinly sliced cooked ham in refrigerated quick crescent dinner rolls. Bake at 375 degrees for 10 to 15 minutes. Pour heated crushed pineapple over baked crescents. Serve for a spring luncheon with a marinated vegetable salad made with canned mixed vegetables.

Soda and Sinkers (doughnuts)

Bucking Broncos

1 pound ground beef
1 tablespoon shortening
1 can (11½ ounces) condensed bean with bacon soup
½ cup ketchup
½ teaspoon chili powder
6 buns, split and toasted

Brown beef in shortening; stir to separate meat particles. Add soup, ketchup, and chili powder; simmer about 5 minutes to blend flavor. Stir often. (Add a little water, if desired.) Serve on buns. 6 servings.

QUICK TIPS

Bull's Eye Salad: Arrange rings of chilled, cooked vegetables on a round platter to resemble a target. Arrange radishes, black olives, or carrot curls in the center for the bull's eye.

Sundae Round-up: Scoop several flavors of ice cream into a large bowl and allow children to make their own sundaes with a variety of toppings, fruit and sauces. Top each serving with animal crackers.

Branded Brownies: Frost brownies with chocolate frost-

ing; cut in squares. With white frosting in tube, "brand" each brownie by printing a child's initials on each brownie.

Oriental Roll

Brush each refrigerated quick swirl dinner roll with one teaspoon soy sauce and sprinkle with sesame seeds. Bake as directed on label. Serve with shrimp chow mein over egg noodles. Everyone likes a surprise fortune cookie with their dessert!

For Sandwich

Open one can refrigerated quick crescent dinner rolls; unroll each triangle. Prepare mixture of one seven-and-a-half-ounce can crab meat, drained, with two tablespoons mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper and spread on each crescent triangle. Bake at 375 degrees for eight minutes. Cut cheese slice in half diagonally and place cheese triangle on each sandwich. Bake remaining five minutes.

California's gross farm income for 1966 is expected to hit $3,950,000,000 as compared with $3,710,000,000 in 1965.

Food Pamphlets

For Consumers

Two new releases are now available from the University of California, Agricultural Extension Service, according to Mrs. Chloe Hultz, San Mateo County Home Advisor.

One, on "Home Storage of Nuts, Cereals, Dried Fruits and Other Dried Products", has been revised and ready for the consumer. It covers the subject on proper containers for storage and the effects of heat and cold on all stages of common pantry insects. Very informative with the warmer weather almost upon us. This publication OSA No. 195.

The other release now available is titled "Three Meals From One Chuck Roast" and is of interest to all housewives eager to have information on more economical food buying. By purchasing a large chuck roast and cutting it for two, three or four meals before cooking, will certainly make your money go farther. At the same time you will get more servings and the cost per serving will be less.

There are tips in what to cook for when buying chuck roasts and how to learn the proper method of judging meat quality. The instructions are also given, both written and in picture, to help the consumer cut the chuck roast to obtain the 3 or 4 meals from one! This is publication OSA 197.

Copies of this information are available without charge by writing the Agricultural Extension Service, P. O. Box 37, Half Moon Bay 94019.

Italian-Born Duchess-Couturier Writes a Cookbook

Simonetta, the Italian-born duchess who reigns as a couturier in Paris, that's who.

To celebrate the publication of her cookbook, "A Snob in the Kitchen" (Doubleday) Simonetta, a few weeks ago, a New York fashion store (Bergdorf Goodman) gave a cocktail party to honor her and her book. Our friend, Roslyn Beilly, attended in our place and here's her report:

"Simonetta was voluble on the subject of pasta. 'One must cook pasta in a special way,' she pronounced, gesticulating in her elegant black dress, her dozens of gold bracelets jingling in emphasis. 'One must use a high flame, a large pot and loads of water. The pasta needs room to swim. Also one must add a small spoon of oil to keep the strands from sticking to each other. And after six minutes of cooking, one must taste, taste, taste. It's impossible to time the pasta with a clock. The timing is affected by many things — the heat, the amount of water, even the kind of water. My recipes taste different in Paris — there is something special in the water.'

"Simonetta is full of charm. In her book, all the dishes impressed and somehow you get the feeling that she is an inspired cook. She cooks by impulse and caprice, and the difficult part of getting the cookbook together was the painstaking job of measuring and recording the precise amounts and directions. But she did get it all down, testing and retesting her favorite recipes. When I browsed through the me as delicious and different.

"Here is one of Simonetta's recipes that I couldn't wait to try. I loved the idea of cooking the spaghetti with lemon slices.

Sour Cream: Low Calories

Many consumers continue to labor under the illusion that dairy sour cream is a high calorie food. Actually there are only 30 calories per tablespoon. When used as a salad dressing in place of mayonnaise which comes out with a 90-calories per tablespoon count, dairy sour cream makes a down-right low-calories salad dressing.

SUMMER DAY SPAGHETTI

- 1 tablespoon oil
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1 small can anchovy fillets
- 2 small onions, chopped
- Jucie of 1 lemon
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- 4 tablespoons heavy cream
- 3 slices lemon
- 1 pound spaghetti

Place the oil, butter and anchovy fillets in a pan. When they are hot, throw in the onions and allow to cook on a low flame until the onions are well cooked. Slowly add the lemon juice and the parsley. Stir and let it cook very slowly for 5 minutes. Stir in the cream, but don't let it boil.

Cook the spaghetti in the boiling water to which you have added the slices of lemon. After 8 to 10 minutes when it is cooked drain and mix in the sauce. Makes 4 servings.

LEAD OFF WITH LIVER. Deep fat fry thin strips of California beef liver lightly coated with seasoned flour. Serve piping hot with hors d'oeuvre picks for dunking in a swirled sauce of catsup and prepared mustard.

U.S. Public Health Service reports that "of the great variety of foods available today, none is more important than milk. Improved appearance and improvement in physical and mental performance have invariably followed the addition of milk to the diet."

Milk Calcium Is Effective

The claim that calcium is calcium no matter the vehicle (food) apparently doesn't hold. Scientific studies indicate otherwise. Of special significance is the fact that calcium in milk is generally utilized by humans more effectively than the calcium obtainable from vegetables.

Human bones also require phosphorus and the ratio of phosphorus to calcium in milk is optimum for efficient deposition of this mineral.

VITAMIN D IN MILK

Vitamin D as found in fortified milk is the safest and most economical source of this important vitamin according to nutritionists throughout our country.

Serve He-Man Specialty That Everybody'll Like

There are some foods that are certain to please the men of your household, and Reuben sandwiches definitely belong in this category. These grilled sandwiches are zesty with the mingled flavors of sauerkraut and corned beef, both used right from the can, plus the nut-sweet goodness of Swiss cheese and rye bread. They're hearty and hot sandwiches — just the kind that men like to bite into.

From a woman's view they are dandies, too, because of their ease of preparation as well as good eating qualities. The ingredients are items we're almost all sure to have in stock, from canned corned beef to Swiss cheese and sauerkraut.

The sandwiches can be made up in jig time thanks to these ready foods; and, if your cupboard supply is good, second and third helpings won't be a problem either.

We'd suggest Reuben sandwiches dished up with golden and crispy French fries (we use the handy frozen potatoes) as the featured attraction at the next male gathering in your home. They're just right, too, for the man of the house when he takes a break from a gardening or house painting session. The meaty goodness of these corned beef sandwiches will help give your favorite fellow renewed energy for his chores.

For some other very tasty sauerkraut. Cut corned beef into 5 slices and add; cover with cheese. Top with remaining bread; press lightly. Fry slowly in butter or margarine until brown on both sides and sandwich is thoroughly heated. Add more butter or margarine as needed. Heat potatoes according to package directions and serve with sandwiches. Makes 5 servings.

GIVE GROUND BEEF MEXICAN TOUCH. To one-pound ground lean California beef, add a small onion, chopped and 1/2 small green pepper, chopped. Zip with one tablespoon EACH chili powder and chili sauce and season with salt and pepper.

EASY REUBEN SANDWICH — Grilled sandwich is zesty for summer, with mingled flavors of sauerkraut and corned beef, nut-sweet good ness of Swiss cheese and rye bread.

Grownups Need Calcium

Just because their bones are full size does not mean that grown-ups can neglect getting adequate amounts of calcium. Calcium is needed by the body for normal blood clotting and for healthy nerve and muscle action and if an insufficient amount is consumed it will be withdrawn from the bones to be used elsewhere. It is difficult to get the calcium needed without eating or drinking milk or other dairy foods daily, because other everyday foods contain little calcium. Turnip greens, broccoli and dried beans are the next best sources yet are not nearly milk's equal in calcium. Besides, good as they are, who wants to eat them every day?

A Trio of Saucy Tempters Bring Out Flavor of California Beef Cuts

This select trio of saucy tempters all begin with flavorful California beef. Each recipe gets a special treatment to enhance the distinctive personality of the cut, and all are suitable for silver platter service.

Versatile veal takes to the Italian touch. Grated Parmesan cheese is the stylish coating for succulent veal round steak. Simmer the thin slices in white wine seasoned with rosemary and continental accents of garlic and onion. Sliced mushrooms and a few colorful green peas complete this elegant entree.

For a company version of a classic Swiss steak start with an economical cut of California beef bottom round. Brown the steaks first and then simmer long and slow in a wine and tomato sauce tastefully seasoned with tarragon, bay leaf and green pepper. For serving, it's smothered with thickened gravy.

Beef stew is a traveler that's perfect for a picnic lunch or dinner. Silver service is seldom appropriate for a cookout, but this one-dish delight cooks in a silver platter. And for ease, it cooks in the oven at home. Bundle up lean beef stew meat with raw vegetables in squares of heavy aluminum foil and bake for an hour and a half. The stew packages will stay hot for a long time but can be warmed in a hurry over campfire coals. The foil rolls back to form rustic individual silver platters filled with a mingling of tender beef chunks and hearty vegetables.

VEAL IN WINE

Tender slices of artfully seasoned veal are a gourmet offering to present on a party best platter or in a handsome chafing dish.

1 1/4 pounds thinly sliced veal round steak

Salt

1-3 cup grated Parmesan cheese
2 tablespoons cooking oil
1 minced small onion
1 minced clove garlic
1 cup sliced mushrooms
2-3 cup white table wine
1/2 teaspoon rosemary
1/2 cup frozen peas
2 teaspoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon cold water

Sprinkle veal with salt, coat both sides with cheese. Brown slowly in hot oil. Add onion, garlic and mushrooms. Cook until onions lightly browned, then add wine and rosemary. Cover and simmer 25 minutes. Add peas. Cover and cook 5 minutes longer. Stir in cornstarch blended with water. Cook a minute longer, stirring, until sauce thickens. Makes 4 servings.

STEAK WITH BARBECUE SAUCE

Simmer beef to tenderness in an electric skillet and beat the heat, but serve with flair on a showy platter.

3 1/2 pounds bottom round steak (2 inches thick)
2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons cooking oil
1 large onion
1 (8-ounce) can tomatoes
1/4 cup white dinner wine
1/4 teaspoon tarragon
1/4 bay leaf
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 tablespoon cold water

Trim fat from beef. Rub beef with salt, paprika and pepper. Brown in hot oil on both sides over medium heat. Add sliced onion and cook lightly. Drain off and discard fat. Add tomatoes, wine, finely crumbled tarragon and bay leaf. Cover and cook over very low heat 2 to 2 1/2 hours, until beef is tender. Add green pepper when meat is almost done. Remove beef to heated serving platter. Stir cornstarch mixed with water into pan sauce. Cook, stirring constantly, until sauce boils and thickens. Serve over beef. Makes 8 servings.

NOTE: If preferred, steak may be cooked in slow oven (300 degrees F.) after browning.

BEEF STEW PACKAGES

Unfold "silver" packets to expose dill accented California beef and vegetables and supply some crusty bread for mopping up the wealth of good juices.

3 large potatoes
6 carrots
6 turnips (optional)
12 small boiling onions
2 pounds lean beef stew meat
Salt
Pepper
Dill Weed
1 (8-ounce) can tomato sauce
Pare vegetables; quarter potatoes, halve carrots and turnips. Arrange meat and vegetables on 6 (12-in. squares heavy aluminum foil. Season with salt, pepper and dill weed. Top with tomato sauce. Close foil securely using drug store fold. Place on shallow baking pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 1 1/2 hours. Serve in packages. Makes 6 servings.

Ingenuity Satisfies Picnic Appetites

Picnic appetites come in three sizes — big — enormous — and huge! So, it takes a little ingenuity and a lot of food to satisfy them all.

When you're faced with this task, call on your faithful ally, the trusty bean, to fill the famished. Perfectly appetizing and sustaining, eaten cold, right from the can, beans of all varieties become entirely new creatures with the addition of onions, meat, cheese or relish.

As a beginning, while you're waiting for hot dogs or steaks to broil, pass around packages of chips and camp cups filled with zesty bean dips. Or, as a main course, toss together generous portions of ground meat, chopped onions and chili beans — pile onto a crisp tortilla, with cheese and lettuce. Ole!

For a crowd, empty cans of barbecue beans into a big kettle; mix in chunks of cheese and bring to a bubbling hotness. Serve with big mugs of full-bodied Kona or Colombian coffee for the perfect end to a camper's day.

Here's a Casserole Dish For Your Sunday Sailor

With the Sunday sailors' season just about here, the gals who man the household galley need new and hearty dishes to prepare when their favorite yachtsmen come home with those bigger-than-usual appetites.

What's more, since Sunday sailors don't usually live by landlubbers' clocks, a big requirement for the homecoming feast is something that goes together quickly no matter what the hour.

We've found one answer with this Captain's Casserole which is hearty enough to please the hungriest male at the table and yet goes to the oven in a jiffy, thanks to a combination of canned and frozen foods you can depend on for help when time is short.

Crispy, golden brown potato rounds — the frozen kind that look like tiny logs — top the casserole of tuna and peas and canned sliced broiled mushrooms all of which are folded into a delicious sauce.

The potato rounds make this a casserole that is truly a meal-in-one which can be baked and then served in the same dish. Use the rounds or frozen French fries as topping, for either will make a tasty crown for the savory, bubbling goodness beneath.

ladies' luncheon... it is one that's filling enough for the master of the household!

Serve the casserole with crisp relishes or spiced peaches, and your menu is complete except for dessert.

It's a dandy to dish up any evening, but especially when you are short of time — such as after an all-day gardening session, at the end of an off-to-camp shopping expedition, or after your own women's club luncheon and fashion show session, as well as when the Sunday sailors come home late and hungry. Your family will be delighted with this quick-fix meal.

CAPTAIN'S CASSEROLE — Here's a he-man dish that makes it easy on the cook. It's a meal in one.

Pizza Snacks

Prepare refrigerated Pizza dough and sauce as directed on label. Top with tiny meat balls and shredded Mozzarella cheese. Bake; cut into small squares. Garnish with stuffed green olives, each on a wooden pick. Serve hot.

The chunks of tuna, bright peas and mushrooms and the rich and flavorful sauce made with evaporated milk all blend together to make this a very satisfying supper dish indeed. One meal will prove to you that this is not a casserole for a

CAPTAIN'S CASSEROLE
 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
 1/4 cup butter
 3 tablespoons flour
 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
 1/2 teaspoon dill weed
 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 1 can (13 ounces) evaporated milk
 2 cans (6 ounces each) tuna, drained and flaked

1 package (10-ounce) frozen peas, partially defrosted and broken apart
 1 can (3-ounce) sliced broiled mushrooms

1 package (1 pound) frozen French fried potato rounds
 Cook green pepper and onion in butter until tender but not brown. Blend in flour and seasonings; gradually add milk and liquid drained from the mushrooms; cook and stir until smooth and thickened. Add tuna, peas, mushrooms and Worcestershire sauce; spoon mixture into a 1 1/2-quart casserole. Place potato rounds on top. Bake at 375 degrees for 30 minutes or until hot and bubbly. Makes 6 servings.

French Potato Pie For Picnic Fare

IT'S POTATO PIE from France and I'll wager you'll never taste better — even if it is an American version of the French original.

How did I come by this treasure of a recipe? A friend of mine, like myself, is a great admirer of the late Louis Diat who was the famed chef of the old Ritz-Carlton Hotel. She translated the Diat recipe into quick-cooking American practice and passed it along to us. First change in this transformation was to use the wonderfully convenient frozen peeled potatoes and chopped onions available in freezer cabinets in American food markets. This change saves so much peeling and chopping that in my kitchen it took not much more than half an hour to prepare the pastry, assemble the pie and put it in the oven.

However, if you prefer a two-step way, you can prepare the pastry for the pie one day, then fill and bake it the next. Serve it as a hot main dish (along with a salad) for lunch, or offer it with meat, poultry or fish (plus salad) for a buffet supper or a sit-down dinner. The pie is also delicious cold — great to carry to a picnic.

FRENCH POTATO PIE
 1 polybag (2 pounds) frozen small whole potatoes
 1/4 cup frozen chopped onion
 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
 2 teaspoons salt
 1/2 teaspoon pepper
 2 tablespoons butter
 1 container (1/2 pint) heavy cream
 Special pastry (see recipe)

Let potatoes thaw at room temperature until they can be sliced easily (1 to 1 1/2 hours, depending on size). Using a knife with a thin, serrated edge, cut into thin slices and place in a bowl (yields 7 cups sliced potatoes.) Chop onions even finer — until finely minced. Add onions, parsley, salt and pepper to potatoes; toss to mix well; set aside.

Roll out half of Special pastry so it is 1 1/2 inches larger all around than the top of a shallow 2 quart oblong glass or similar baking dish — 11 1/2 by 7 1/2 by 1 1/2 inches. Fit pastry into dish; fill with potato mixture; dot with butter. Trim pastry even with edge of dish. Roll out remaining pastry and place it over potatoes; trim 1 inch beyond edge of dish; fold under the bottom pastry; flute edge and cut four 3 inch slits in top.

Bake in moderate (375 degrees) oven 1 to 1 1/2 hours or until potatoes are tender when tested with a fork and pastry is lightly browned. Remove from oven. Slowly pour the cream into the slits. Let stand 5 minutes before serving. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

SPECIAL PASTRY
 2 1/4 cups sifted regular flour
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/2 cup shortening
 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter
 4 tablespoons cold water

Sift the flour and salt into a mixing bowl. With a pastry blender, cut in shortening until particles are fine; cut in butter until particles are the size of peas. Sprinkle 1 tablespoon of the water overpart of the mixture. Lightly mix with a fork until flour is absorbed, the push aside; in the same way continue adding remaining water, 1 tablespoon at a time. Gather together the dough with your hands and shape into a ball. Wrap in saran. Chill. Use as directed in French Potato Pie.

GREAT PICNIC FARE — This French Potato Pie is as delicious served cold as it is when it is offered hot.

QUICK TIPS

Fruit Compote Cointreau: In a large glass bowl, combine 12 cups cut up fresh fruit and berries. Cover with 4 to 5 cups pineapple juice mixed with 4 tablespoons cointreau. Garnish with mint leaves. 21 servings.

Beef Broth Chablis: 6 cans (10 1/2 ounces each) condensed beef broth
 6 soup cans water
 1/4 cup Chablis or other dry white wine (optional)
 Combine all ingredients. Place in refrigerator for at least 4 hours. Serve in chilled cups or glasses. 20 (6-ounce) servings.

Turkey a la King in Patty Shells:
 1/2 cup diced green pepper
 1/4 cup butter or margarine
 6 cans (10 1/2 ounces each) condensed cream of chicken soup
 2 to 3 cups milk
 1 1/2 quarts diced cooked turkey
 1/4 cup chopped pimiento
 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 20 patty shells

In heavy saucepan, cook green pepper in butter over low heat until tender. Blend in soup and milk; stir until smooth. Add remaining ingredients. Heat slowly; stir now and then to prevent scorching. Serve in patty shells. 20 servings.

Quick 'n' Easy
 Prepare tuna a la king adding one or more of your favorite ingredients; toasted almonds, pimiento, sliced green olives, shredded cheddar cheese, sliced water chestnuts, or frozen mixed vegetables, and serve over refrigerated flaky or Buttermilk Biscuits. Serve with parsley seasoned broiled tomato half.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Fork 'n' Cork Set For Grand Re-Opening Date

SINCE JOERG KRUMPHOLZ and Vic Proul redecorated their Fork 'n' Cork restaurant, patrons who haven't been in since Memorial Day couldn't possibly recognize the restaurant's interior. The beautiful new "Cork" Room is completely divided from the dining area, where seating capacity has been greatly increased. Be sure to note the restaurant's distinguished insignia, which was designed by multi-talented Julie Proul. For a true dining delight, Bright Lights recommends Salmon Isobe-Age (Salmon Steak, rolled with seaweed, dipped in egg and deep pan fried) served at Toshio Kiyohara's Iriune on San Mateo's 17th Avenue. Besides fine Continental cuisine, the Blue Peacock restaurant in Millbrae also boasts of having one of the smoothest dance floors on the Peninsula. The sweet music of the fabulous Romanos, appearing on Friday and Saturday nights for dinner dancing.

Joerg Krumpholz

THE ALFINITO CLAN, who operate Rudolfo's, like to hop up to South Shore when the rigors of operating a successful restaurant and cocktail lounge demand a rest. Luckiest of the bunch in the casinos is vivacious Virginia, spouse of affable Harry Alfinito. A dollar's worth of nickels is usually all the requirement necessary. Her frequent Jackpots are more than enough to bail out Harry, who is about as lucky as the rest of us are. In the mood for listening to some great organ music? The sing alongs led by Paul Mendoza, who is currently spotlighted at the Chamberlin Organ in the beautiful lounge of the New Southern restaurant, South San Francisco, are weekly affairs for many of the Southern's regular patrons. The Mesa cocktail lounge, San Bruno, will be celebrating a grand reopening tonight and tomorrow night. Owners Tom Morgan and Walt Raiter report that a completely remodeled addition almost doubles the seating capacity and the size of the dance floor. Free orchids for the ladies; door prizes given away throughout the evening. Also live entertainment featuring 3 Bees and a Honey.

NOW IT CAN BE TOLD: Lorraine and Nick Gust and family will celebrate the 40th anniversary of their Nick's restaurant and cocktail lounge, Pacifica, with a "you're invited" buffet spread Sunday, July 2, and Monday, July 3, with service from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. on each evening. Two orchestras will be on hand to entertain and play for dancing. Watch for a complete party rundown in the June 23 Special Vacation, Travel and Dine-Out Guide. The Villa Charter's new Winchester Room has caught on the way it should — with reservations coming in fast for both 1967 and 1968. That's not a fashion model darting here and there in the Fourth Avenue Blums "food and sweet shop," but Manager Nan Urbano. This is where I purchase my "Lumps and Bumps," a non-fattening candy. Everyone's night club, the Winchester Cathedral, has started a new policy of being open four nights a week. Owner Rich Romanello and his "hip" crew will open the Cathedral's doors Wednesday through Saturday nights for the duration of the summer.

JOE ERCOLI flatly states that the Cannelloni served at his Leaning Tower, South San Francisco, is the best to be found anywhere in this country, and compares with any to be found on the Continent. Patrons of the Ercoli brothers' "Towers" especially those who are frequent travelers to Europe, agree. The "Magellan," the first French ship to arrive at the Redwood City port, was welcomed last week by the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce and lovely Miss Jacquie Dwyer, "Miss Redwood City Centennial." The ship's skipper, Captain Bernard Billebeaud, was guest of honor at a luncheon served at L'Auberge, the chic French restaurant in Redwood City. Fans of exciting Flamenco dancing with all the flavor of old Spain, shout "oles" nightly at Finocchio's in tribute to the fiery footwork of Juan Jose. The beautiful wardrobe of this outstanding female impersonator always brings gasps from the audience.

ARTURO LEIBA, one of Mexico's foremost recording artists and film stars, is in his first West Coast engagement at Luz Garcia's Sinaloa cantina and restaurant in San Francisco. Also new in this authentic all-Mexican revue which is presented three times nightly is Raul Lara, the handsome master of ceremonies. No cover charge to diners. Around noon time any day of the week you're likely to find most of the downtown San Mateo business people gathered at Bruno's enjoying Chef Bruno Fava's luncheon creations, and exchanging tales with congenial Tom Zuchelli. Guitarist-vocalist Frank Adams is still the center of attraction on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at the Cap'n's Cabin. According to "Captain" Duane Eckert, Frank's music has Cabin patrons "sailing" from their "deck" chairs for a bit of dance floor capering. Phil Lehr is having a big run on Peach Wellington Steak at his Steakery in downtown San Francisco. This steak dish was created by Phil for Dean Martin's daughter, Claudia, when she dined at his Steakery while here for her latest movie.

ANGELA LICATA is the latest member of the Licata family to join Vince's Italian and Sea food restaurant staff. Presently, she is assisting as hostess. Won't be long until Rosalind, youngest member of the hard-working family, joins "Pappy" in this thriving restaurant operation. Marge Sturtevant, the Green Door "pizza queen" of Burlingame, is continuing her "get acquainted two-for-one" pizza offer this coming week, Monday through Friday. Marge almost lost her chef's hat, this past weekend, as customers came pouring into her "parlor," and the phone almost rang itself off the hook. The ad coupon is good for any size — any kind of pizza. At the Black Angus Chuck Wagon, the popular "All you can eat" restaurant in San Mateo, new prices are now in effect. The new management, headed by likeable Carlo Fasolo, is creating a "food" stamped.

Maria Brightens The Fireside

Sultry Maria, the blonde Swedish bombshell, and the 1967 Topless Revue, featuring Billie, Saint and Linda, are currently drawing big at Jack McRae and Phil Maita's Fireside seven nights a week. As an added attraction, singer Oddie Coakes raises the already-hot temperatures with her "Nancy Wilson" song stylings.

New popular-priced "Travelers' Dinners" at $4.25 have been introduced at Bimbo's 365 in San Francisco which is headlining the Fifth Dimension. The tasty dinners begin with Caesar's Salad or mixed green with choice of dressing. Followed by potato du jour. Entrees include Veal Cutlet Milanese, Boneless Cornish Game Hen and Halibut Steak. All prepared by Executive Chef Charles Peter.

Singer Gerry Glasier, who entertains nightly in the cabaret at the Carrousel du Soleil looks like one of those rare talents that come along once in a long time. Glasier, who was discovered by Carousel Manager Ralph Oswald when he was singing recently in Circle Star production, was booked to sing Tuesdays through Saturdays with the smooth orchestra of appearing at Pierre's in San Emil Miller.

Gomans' Gay 60's has a sensational topless dance called "Tiger in a Cage" that has all the male eyes popping. They don't unpop when the Gay 60's also presents "Flying Topless," "Topless Girl on the Trampoline," "Nude Girl on a Swing," and their nightly "Amateur Topless Contests." To coin a phrase, "Gomans' Gay 60's is tops for topless."

Politico-dining-out - note: Harold Dobbs and his wife had a steak dinner at Lew Lehr's after announcing his candidacy for SF's Mayor. On the other hand, SF's present Mayor John Snelly and his wife celebrated their 14th wedding anniversary at a dinner-party at Doros.

Many top Bay Area sports personalities are regular diners at Fabro's in Redwood City.

Pay particular attention to the Villa Coffee House "Specials." The hard-to-top prices prevail 24-hours a day. Clip out the advertisements and be up to date on the "Special" entrees.

The Nooney Rickett V, a lively group direct from Las Vegas and a smash engagement in San Francisco opened last night at Don Zilli's Embers in Redwood City.

Mame Spring, the sexy-topless comedienne currently appearing at Pierre's in San Francisco, is the new "toast" of North Beach.

Stickney's Is A Luncheon Favorite

Stickney's of San Mateo continues to find favorite with the young crowd who gather after office hours each weekday in the restaurant's Stagecoach Lounge. Special "happy hour" prices from 4:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. with complementary not and cold hors d'oeuvres. Gary Lee entertains Tuesday through Saturday in the adjacent Stagecoach dining room.

Al Hirt, one of the very few entertainment giants to have three million-selling albums to his credit, opened a two-week engagement in the Circus Room of John Ascuaga's Nugget, last week. Appearing with the bearded trumpeter and his Sextet (which includes sidekick Pee Wee Spitalera), will be the popular dancing and singing cut-ups Bud and CeCe Robinson, plus the vocal stylings of The Clingers.

Sahara-Tahoe Hotel in State-line has been commended by Master Hosts, of which it is a member, for the outstanding courtesy of its large staff of employees. Recently an extensive program was initiated at the 25-million dollar resort hotelery instructing employees on the value of courtesy to hotel guests.

Dave Rapken has come up with a unique dandy at his Galaxie on the corner of Broadway and Kearny. It's a "Hippie Dance of Love" as done topless by Miss Teddy Bare (how about that name?).

Good to see Claude Schroeder back at his post of Food and Beverage Manager at South San Francisco's busy Holiday Inn.

Drive-Up Window At Roabees Popular

Roabee "King" Joe Acosta, says business is unusually brisk at the Drive-Up window every Sunday night. Housewives in the area stop by to pick up their husband's lunches for the coming week. It's an experience to open your lunch and find a delicious Roast Beef Sandwich inside.

Frostie, the formful exotic dancer at the Cameo Club, wiggles in new ways that haven't even been invented yet. Her personality on stage and off is winning some of the strongest applause ever seen at the Cameo Club.

UC, Riverside Research Task For Torlakson

Westmoor High School student Christopher M. Torlakson will spend seven weeks this summer at the University of California, Riverside, doing research in the biological and physical sciences as related to agricultural sciences.

CHRIS TORLAKSON

Christopher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen D. Torlakson, of 868 Southgate, Daly City, is one of 30 students selected from California and out-of-state applicants to attend UCR's fourth summer science program for high school juniors.

The program, which begins June 19, consists of seminars, lecture course, field trips and an individual research project to be conducted in the laboratory facilities of UCR's Citrus Research Center and Agricultural Experiment Station. The students will be working with UCR scientists while conducting their research.

Dr. Glen Cannell, the program's director and assistant dean of the UCR School of Agricultural Sciences, says the program lets a student see how his previous course work in the physical and biological sciences relates to modern scientific agriculture while he's still in high school. Also he adds, the student participates in an actual research project being conducted by UCR scientists which will contribute to his general knowledge of the agricultural sciences.

The National Science Foundation provides Dr. Cannell with funds to cover part of the students' living and travel expenses. All research, teaching and field trip costs are paid by funds from the Foundation and UCR.

Bruno's Dodge Wins Matches

The tennis-rich Peninsula uncovered another potential champion yesterday.

San Bruno's Larry Dodge, former third-ranked Northwestern Tennis Association player from Minnesota, advanced in the Oakland City Tennis Championships by ousting Charles Fritz of Roseville, 6-4, 6-3, in a third-round match.

Earlier in the day Dodge sidelined Bob Maloney, 6-0, 6-2, in a second-round match.

Men's Singles — (first round) —
Friedman d. O'Neil, 6-3, 6-3; Hank d. Talmadge, 6-3, 6-2; (second round) Kitz d. Lee, 6-2, 6-3; McPherson d. Fane, 6-1, 6-2; Parsons d. Beanes, 6-3, 6-0; Humphrey d. Gino, 3-6, 7-5, 6-3; Hanson d. Enos, 6-1, 6-0; Dodge d. Maloney, 6-0, 6-2; Jones d. Ribeiro, 6-2, 6-2; Steinorth d. Carlton, 6-0, 6-1; Friedman d. Lee, 6-4, 6-2; (Third Round) — Dodge d. Fritz, 6-4, 6-3.

Men's Doubles — (First Round) — Lee and McPherson d. Rubin and Owendick, 6-3, 6-1; Barton and Fritz d. Bakus and Dawson, 6-4, 6-1; Lee and Schroeder d. Scott and Wright, 1-6, 6-2, 7-5; Knight and Hitchcock d. Jones and Jones, 6-3, 6-3; Robinson and Siebel d. Fane and Cross, 6-1, 7-5; Ferguson and Castle d. Moffett and Parker, 6-3, 6-0.

Junior Veterans Singles — (First round) — King d. Atkins, 6-0, 6-1; Stratta d. Geist, 6-3, 6-0; Svenson d. Downs, 7-5, 10-6; (Second Round) — Nehmedbisch d. Polak, 6-0, 6-3; Elmke d. Welch, 6-3, 6-2.

Westborough Annex Plan To SSF Board

A representative of the Westborough Homeowners Improvement Association has requested an opportunity "to discuss delivery of the Westborough Park" at last week's meeting of the South San Francisco City Council.

H. D. Merrill, chairman of the homeowners association's parks and recreation committee, stated in a letter to the council this week he wants "to discuss starting condemnation proceedings against the Callan interests."

"The city's annexation agreement with Caesar-Callan Homes called for delivery of 15 acres of graded land, free and clear of encumbrances, on or before Oct. 1, 1966," the letter states. "More than seven months have passed since the delivery date, and nothing has been done. We believe that the city should start condemnation proceedings against the Callan interests," he said.

The council approved a complicated escrow arrangement with the Caesar-Callan firm last month in order to allow further development of the Westborough Subdivision.

Earlier, councilmen had demanded that the park site, along with a one-acre fire station site, be delivered free and clear of liens before any further grading permits were issued for work in the subdivision.

The compromise arrangement, recommended by City Atty. John Noonan, places virtually all the remaining portions of the subdivision in escrow as security for improvement of the city's parcels and clearance of approximately $178,000 in liens on the property.

Representatives of the Westborough Homeowners Improvement Association have also requested an opportunity to discuss several matters related to traffic safety on Westborough Boulevard at the Monday meeting.

Among the items to be discussed are the possibility of constructing a pedestrian overpass at Westborough Boulevard and Galway Place, traffic lights at Westborough and Oakmont-Callan Drive, and the probable dates of commencement and completion of the Westborough Boulevard widening project.

Ritual Hold Pledge

The Alpha Alpha Omicron Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi in Pacifica recently conducted a pledge ritual for Mrs. Edith Paradise and Mrs. Dorcas Johnson in the home of president Mrs. Stella Simmons.

Waiter Sets Self On Fire

A waiter at Bertolucci's Restaurant in South San Francisco accidentally set himself on fire last week while serving cherries jubilee—a specialty of the house.

Abbas Teherani, 30, of 2889 State Drive, Aptos, was reported in satisfactory condition at Peninsula Hospital with burns of the legs and hands.

Because of his condition, Teherani was not able to explain exactly what caused the freak accident.

Investigators said the waiter apparently slipped, splashing the flaming material onto his clothing.

An unidentified patron leaped on Teherani and extinguished the flames before they could burn the victim further.

Damage to the restaurant was slight, a fire department official said.

Portable Classrooms Purchased

South San Francisco Unified School District trustees awarded a purchase order for more than $100,000 worth of relocatable classrooms to the Speedspace Corporation last Monday.

The firm's bid of $10,947 per unit on the 11-unit order was the lowest of five bids entered.

The portable classrooms will be used as needed at school's throughout the district, Supt. Dr. Paul Nielsen said.

Another contract was awarded to A & J Shooter, Inc., for installation of an irrigation system at El Camino High School.

The firm's bid of $3,695 was the lowest entered on the project.

A resolution authorizing an application for federal funds for public works planning on the Westborough Junior High School project was approved, and trustees accepted a gift of $100 from the Winston Manor Community Association for a display case in the Alta Loma School library.

Trustees also adopted a policy on holding executive sessions with parents of students at the meeting.

Under the new policy, parents requesting to confer with the trustees may do so at the study session 30 minutes prior to the regular meeting by submitting a request in advance, Dr. Nielsen said.

Annex Meet Will Hear 'Other Side'

The other side of the proposed annexation story on bringing the entire Cabrillo Unified School District into the city of Half Moon Bay will be heard by the city council at tonight's regular meeting, starting at 8 at Robin Hood Lodge.

Ed Farwell, an officer with the Skyline Water District, will speak on the negative side of the annexation question. Most of the opposition to the huge annexation, which would make Half Moon Bay the fourth largest city in the state area-wise, has come from the Skyline area, which considers itself too removed from Half Moon Bay.

The council has heard a presentation for the annexation from the Montara-Moss Beach Improvement Association, instigator of the annex move now being studied by the county Local Agencies Formation Commission.

An amendment to make the city hotel-motel tax operative also will be considered, to allow the city to collect the tax and contribute 25 per cent to the county convention and tourism fund.

Up for introduction is an ordinance creating "B" residential districts, which sets specific frontage and setback minimums in the as-yet undeveloped areas of the city.

Two Robbers At D.C. Show Take $158

Two strongarm robbers held up the Geneva Drive-In Theater in Daly City Thursday and fled with more than $158 after roughing up a female attendant. Jennifer Kurihara told police the men — both around 20 years old — walked up to the ticket booth shortly after 10:30 p.m. and asked for the correct time.

One of the men forced his way into the booth and started pushing Miss Kurihara against a wall while his partner reached through the window and grabbed the money from an open cash drawer.

The pair also took Miss Kurihara's purse containing a personal check for some $38, police said.

Last week, a pair of armed robbers held up the same theater and escaped with $90 after knocking out ticket attendant Ronald Kurihara — a cousin of Miss Kurihara.

SCREENINGS

Bob Foster

I first met Don Webster several years ago when he and I were covering the opening of a new radio station in Los Altos. At that time he was a reporter for the Palo Alto Times.

I knew from that short meeting that Don was really interested in radio and television. His move to KCBS about a year or so later came as no great surprise.

After working with the San Francisco station, Don was granted a CBS Fellowship for a year. He went to New York and Columbia University. Following his work there he went to Africa to study the situation there. This was his first experience as a foreign correspondent for a radio or television group.

The next time I ran into him was last summer when he flew from KNX-TV in Los Angeles to Candlestick Park to be on hand, with a cameraman, when and if Willie Mays set his new home run record. It was a long wait. Don commuted between Los Angeles and San Francisco for six days before finally getting the event on film.

Last night I saw Don again.

THIS TIME HE was on his stomach in a muddy field in Vietnam. Don was with a unit of the U.S. Cavalry which was undergoing an intense attack by the Viet Cong.

His coolness under the rather trying conditions was most outstanding. He talked off the top of his head as adroitly as though he were reading a carefully prepared script.

Not only was his commentary outstanding, he was working with something of a handicap. His cameraman had been wounded by Viet Cong gunfire and although in extreme pain kept filming the scene.

Don has become a real pro, and deserves a pat on the back, and I'd like to be one of the first to give him one. His friends here on the Peninsula are proud of him. It is to be hoped that Don gets to read this short comment on his becoming a first class television newsmen.

SPEAKING OF CBS NEWS, some changes are occurring in New York which would indicate that the CBS radio stations, including KCBS, will probably be increasing the coverage of news.

Several changes at the network level and in the owned-and-operated-station division would indicate that news will be the paramount function of most CBS-owned radio stations.

FOR THOSE WHO might have felt that ABC would drop the "Joey Bishop Show," have no fears. Despite the fact that Joey's show hasn't been doing too well in the ratings, Len Goldberg, vice president in charge of programming for ABC, said today that the show will remain on the air.

Goldberg explained that actually the Joey Bishop show had started off better than did the Jack Paar show.

"We can't forget that Jack Paar premiered in late night TV in August 1957 with 11 per cent of the audience, and for several months his audience remained at that level," Goldberg said.

Actually, Joey has been slightly better. He has had about a 15 per cent share of the audience, while Johnny Carson has a 30 per cent share.

"We intend to keep Joey on," he said, "for he really isn't doing too badly."

Two Color Films to Be Shown Twice

James Stewart, dive master for the Scripps Institute of Oceanography, will present two color films on the programs to be presented Friday and Saturday at the College of San Mateo Little Theater. Stewart will show film on dangerous marine animals and an underwater sand slide that threatened underwater researchers in Mexico.

Starting at 7:30 p.m. on both Friday and Saturday, the programs include movies of shark behavior, diving, and the recovery operations of the U.S. Navy for the submarine Squalus. Panel discussions will also be included in which the audience may participate.

Appearing on the programs are Morgan Degen, Sr., Los Angeles aquatic specialist; Capt. A. R. Behnke; James Dutcher, La Jolla diving expert; and Dewey Bergman, Berkeley travel executive.

The programs are sponsored by the Tiburon SCUBA Club and the San Mateo City Recreation Department. Tickets at $1.50 are available from club members and by mail from the Recreation Department.

Baby-sitter Hurt in Crash

An employee of a Daly City babysitter agency was seriously injured yesterday when her car crashed into the Sierra Point overpass structure on Bayshore Freeway in South San Francisco.

Highway patrolmen said Mrs. Helen Herman, 45, of San Francisco, was northbound at 4 p.m. when traffic slowed ahead. She put on the brakes and the sedan skidded out of control and hit the abutment, then flipped over and came to rest upside down in the roadway.

Mrs. Herman was admitted to San Francisco General Hospital with a dislocated shoulder, fractured collarbone and other injuries.

"DENTAL HEALTH FACTS"

What is malocclusion?

Malocclusion is irregularity of tooth position and poor fitting together of the teeth on closing the jaws. Such irregularity not only may interfere with chewing and with speech but also may lead to disease of the gums and other supporting structures of the teeth (periodontal disease). Malocclusion may also produce deformities of the face.

Dr. Campbell tries to limit his practice to the making of dental plates, partial plates, removable bridges and extractions for some, however, he recommends that you see your dentist at least twice a year in order to help prolong the use of your natural teeth. Dentures are not as efficient as healthy, natural teeth.

Pickets Scuffle At N. County Plants

Two separate incidents marred the otherwise quiet picket line posted around the Van Water & Rogers Company plant in Brisbane Thursday as the strike of some 25,000 warehousemen entered its fourth day.

In another picketing incident in the North County, striking warehousemen tipped over a truck after it left a South San Francisco firm ringed by pickets.

James A. Clark, 23, of 509 Northridge Road, told officers he was chased by ten carloads of pickets after he left the Volk Company, 475 Eccles Street, South San Francisco. They cut him off at the Bayshore Freeway and rolled over his flatbed truck damaging two rugs, he told police. He was not hurt.

The first Brisbane incident occurred shortly after 10 a.m. when a semi-trailer truck hauling 400 bags of fertilizer from Los Angeles tried to cross the picket line thrown up at the entranceway to the Van Waters plant on Old Bayshore Road. Members of Local 8860, I.L.W.U., stopped the truck as it started to negotiate the turn towards the company's loading area.

Brisbane police appeared on the scene and ordered the truck off the main roadway because of the danger it presented to traffic attempting to skirt around the 40-foot long trailer protruding into the highway.

Officials of the Van Waters Company, apparently fearing further trouble from the pickets, refused to unload the truck and ordered it out of the yard.

Following the first incident, a panel truck driven by Frederick Munich, 24, of 3281 Casa de Campo, San Mateo, started to leave the plant area when two pickets approached it to question the driver.

Instead of stopping, however, Munich, a salesman for Van Waters, allegedly stepped on the accelerator and shot ahead, knocking pickets Jeff Ruden, of 1163 Manzanita Drive, Pacifica, and Mel Townsend, of San Francisco, over the highway guard rail.

The men were treated for cuts and bruises at Kaiser Hospital in South San Francisco and released. Both pickets were back on duty within the hour.

Police picked up Munich and escorted him to the Brisbane police station for questioning. Shop Steward Glen Conklin could offer no reason for the driver's action.

"All we wanted to do was ask him what the nature of his business was," Conklin said. Brisbane Police Chief Lillard Dyer declared "we're not strikebreakers... we aren't taking any sides in this matter."

Firms Act To Halt 'Threats'

A temporary restraining order against "unlawful acts" by pickets in the warehouse strike were obtained Friday by three north county companies.

Dunlop Tire and Rubber Co. of 1333 Lowrie Avenue, South San Francisco; William Volker & Co. of 475 Eccles Avenue, South San Francisco; and Van Waters & Rogers of 3745 Bayshore Boulevard, Brisbane, charged in lawsuits filed late yesterday that pickets or Warehouse Union Local 160 had used threats and violence.

In addition to the restraining order, Dunlop and Volker asked for $10,000 each and Van Waters & Rogers for $25,000 in damages against the union.

Superior Judge Edmund Scott, who signed the restraining order, scheduled a court hearing for 9:30 a.m. June 27.

ECUMENISM AT EXPO 67

In contrast with previous international fairs, which have had separate buildings and exhibition for different faiths, the Christian Pavilion at Expo 67, Montreal's World Fair, will house the seven largest Christian churches in Canada, says the Catholic Digest.

The denominations are Catholic, Anglican, Presbyterian, Lutheran, Baptist, Greek Orthodox and United Church of Canada. Expo 67 will run from April 28 through October 27.

LSD Damage To Brain Is Revealed

LSD is a hallucinatory — not a psychedelic drug. It does not "expand" the mind. It creates disorders and explodes it.

Brain changes may be permanent even after one single experience with LSD.

These are medically established facts set forth in the monthly San Mateo County Health Bulletin today under the title of "Dangers of LSD." It was an adaptation of an open letter to young people and parents written by the Vancouver, B.C. Health Officer.

It states "Persons who use LSD are often young. They may not be able to cope with the overpowering effects of the drug."

"LSD can result in bodily harm to the users and to others."

It can create a panic state of mind. It can cause distortions of shape, size, colors, distances, sounds and time. A second may seem an hour; an hour, a second. A person on the fourth story of a building may believe he is two feet from the ground and jump to his death. Contrary to what some users say, LSD is not a psychedelic drug. It produces hallucinations. LSD does not "expand" the mind; the drug disorders and explodes it. The effects are not always temporary. Repeat of these hallucinations can occur later at the most unexpected times. Therefore, the brain changes may be permanent even after one single experience with LSD.

"Impurities and the impossibility of controlling the dosage

in the commonly obtained black market form of LSD add to the dangers of this drug. The regular medical dosage is so small that one ounce of LSD would be sufficient to treat 300,000 patients.

"The sale of LSD in California is prohibited. It is even illegal to possess it or to give or transfer LSD to any person. The only exception is for use at approved research centers. The penalty for any violation can be up to $1,000 fine and/or one year's imprisonment. Convictions for repeat violations or for manufacturing or selling LSD can carry penalties up to 10 years. If prosecution proceeds by indictment, and there is conviction, the offender then has a criminal record. This record will prevent him from emigrating in the future to a number of countries in the world. It will also prevent him from holding public office and other important positions in industry, business, and the professions.

"The possible social consequences are serious. Case histories of some users show a slipping in achievement in every phase of life. Secrecy that surrounds the use of LSD and all illicit drugs tends to drive young people into groups separated from the rest of society."
